Westminster Wins the First Game of the Lacrosse Series After a Splendid Fight.

Final Matches For the H. P. Co. Medal—Cricket the Ruling Attraction.

VANCOUVER, May 13.—(Special).—Vancouver and New Westminster, in the first game of the 1893 series to-day, were so equally matched that the time limit had to be extended half an hour to decide the game, and the fifteen hundred people present at the Brockton Point grounds witnessed one of the most intensely interesting games in the history of lacrosse in this province. W. S. Taylor acted as referee, while the umpires were W. H. Ellis, of Victoria, and Herbert Simpson, of Montreal; A. B. MacKenzie captaining Westminster and H. Quigley Vancouver.

Vancouver showed rather better team play but the Royal City boys had the better staying power, which eventually won them the struggle. For Westminster the Peeles played well right through to the finish. Campbell was also in great form, while Taylor, Oddy and the other juniors put up an A 1 game. Ryal was also playing strong and sure, and, in fact, every man in the Westminster team deserves favorable mention. For Vancouver the same may be said, except that the pace and length of the game seemed to tell on the home team more than on the visitors. Cheney saved the goal twenty times. Spain spoiled many splendid plays of the opposing team, and McGregor, Peard, Suckling, Nicolls, and all the "juniors" had brilliant plays credited to them.

The first game was pure good fortune for Vancouver. The teams had been playing thirty minutes when Peard made a choo shot from centre and Campbell swiped the ball through.

The second game was scored by Nicolls and McGregor for Vancouver, after six minutes' play, and the third game by the same combination in seven minutes. A large number of people went home thinking it a foregone conclusion that Vancouver would win. But the fates had ordained otherwise.

Westminster played game No. 4 with the same spirit as the previous games, while, with the exception of Spain, Cheney, Quann and one or two others, Vancouver showed their poor condition and evident fatigue. The fourth game was won in seventeen minutes for New Westminster, B. Peele scoring. Part of the game was played with Lewis, Westminster, ruled off. The fifth game was also won for Westminster in eight minutes, B. Peele and Ryal scoring. There was ten minutes to play, and Vancouver struggled painfully to prevent a tie. But it came in five minutes, Ryal and B Peele making the lucky shot for Westminster.

The Westminster contingent became hysterically delighted, and no one blamed them. Their team had practised themselves into prime shape, and they deserved their success.

In the half hour extension, Vancouver fought with the desperation of despair. Their defence was then the only hope, and, most unfortunately, after twenty minutes' play, Suckling, on defence, was indiscreet, and was promptly ruled off by honest Will Taylor, and the play continued for nine minutes more; then Quann injured his wrist. The game was started again, the referee announcing that there was still one minute to play. The ball was faced and Westminster got the best of the struggle. It was thrown into Vancouver goal, and a Westminster player swiped it through. Time, one minute—the closest call on record.

CHALLENGE CUP TOURNAMENT.

NANAIMO, May 13.—(Special).—The Association football tournament on the Northfield athletic club grounds this afternoon, for a challenge cup presented by the N. A. A. A., brought together large crowds to witness several contests. The competing teams were the Nanaimo Rangers, the Alphas, the Northfield A.A.A. Seniors and Juniors and the Wanderers. The tournament was opened by the Association teams, Seniors and Juniors, the former winning by two goals to one, though their youthful opponents made a stubborn fight. The second game was between the Rangers and the Alphas, and proved the greatest attraction; but the latter failed to make headway against the Rangers, who won a comparatively easy victory by five to nil. The Seniors' fight came off next, between the Northfield association and the Senior Wanderers, the former winning by three to nothing. The final, between the Rangers and the Northfield Association Seniors, will be played next Saturday.

CRICKET.

VICTORIA C. C. V. CORRIG COLLEGE.

Yesterday afternoon a pleasant game was played between Corrig College and a fairly strong eleven of the Victoria C. C., on the Caledonian grounds. The Victoria club went in first, Holt and Smith facing the bowling of Goward and Wilson. Holt was bowled by Goward after making five, and Morley soon followed, bowled by Wilson for one. Smith played good cricket for 16. Drake and Goward stayed together for some time, and Austin Goward gave place to Cartwright. The last wickets fell quickly, and the innings closed for 62. The fielding of the college boys was very good; Cartwright bowled best, taking three wickets for seven runs. The bowling of Goward and Morley was too much for the nervous batsmen of the college, and though Field

THE ARBITRATION.

Further Arguments of Sir Charles Russell in Opposition to the American Pretensions.

PARIS, May 13.—Yesterday Sir Charles Russell further contended that the American statutes were not intended originally to treat Behring Sea as a mare clausum, but the American courts so declared them at the instance of the American government. In proof of this assertion, he cited a copy of a brief for the United States, in which the doctrine of mare clausum was the only one relied on by their counsel.

Mr. Phelps—"We dispute the authenticity of that copy."

Sir Charles Russell—"I am prepared forthwith to submit proof of its authenticity. If the correctness of the copy was really questioned, why was not the original produced long since?" Continuing his argument, Sir Charles said that the Court which condemned the vessels seized in Behring Sea sat as a Municipal court interpreting American law, not as a Prize court administering international law. This proved beyond dispute that the seizures were made on the ground that the whole of Behring Sea was a portion of United States territory, and not on the ground of those novel principles of international law, which had been enunciated by the U. S. Counsel at the opening of the arbitration. In conclusion, Sir Charles demanded that the tribunal pronounce the seizures made by the United States in Behring Sea to be illegal.

Senator Morgan—"If the seizures can be justified on other principles than those advanced, is it not open to the United States to raise them?"

Sir Charles—"No; the United States seized the ships on certain grounds. A great nation cannot shift and change her position. Moreover, the reasons now advanced, even if admitted, did not justify the fining and the imprisoning of sailors."

Commutation of the Chatham Murderer's Capital Sentence—Custom's Officers and the Public.

The Scott Act to Be Voted on In Brome—Canada's Nickel Output.

(From our own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, May 13.—The Cabinet to-day considered the case of Veney, the Chatham wife murderer. At the trial the attempt to prove Veney insane was unsuccessful. Since death sentence was imposed it is said Veney has developed symptoms of softening of the brain. Under the circumstances the Cabinet decided to recommend His Excellency to commute the sentence to penal servitude for life.

A strong circular was recently sent out to the customs authorities by Controller Wallace. It says that numerous complaints have been made to the department of incivility to the public and the use of insulting language by officers of the customs at the frontier and other points. All charges of this nature received here in the future will be strictly investigated by officers specially detailed for the purpose. Any official in the customs service, who is proved to have acted in an offensive manner to persons transacting business with him, will be summarily dealt with. It is the determination of the department to insist upon the most courteous treatment being accorded to the business public on all occasions, and officers are to remember that this is an essential part of their duty. There must be a prompt disposal of all matters brought before them, they being invariably careful to afford all information and assistance in their power to persons having business relations with them.

The Brome electors vote on June 16 on the question of the repeal of the Scott Act.

Three officers and five seamen of the Beaver Liner, Lake Huron, have received valuable rewards from the Government for gallantry in rescuing the lives of the crew of the Yarmouth barque Kate Cann.

The Supreme Court concluded its business to-day. Judgments will be rendered on June 24.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Reception of Candidates Into Full Connection—Discussion as to Circuit Invitations.

Increase of Church Membership—Epworth League Asks Co-Operation of Pastors.

(Special to the COLONIST.)

NEW WESTMINSTER, May 13.—The Methodist conference meeting last night was the most important in the series, being for the purpose of receiving candidates for the ministry into full connection. The candidates, Revs. W. D. Misener, J. C. Spencer, C. H. M. Sutherland, George H. Morden and J. P. Hicks, in turn recited the story of their conversion and their call to the ministry, speaking in a manner which forcibly impressed their earnestness on the meeting.

Rev. J. H. White moved the reception of these young men.

Rev. C. Bryant seconded the motion in a few well chosen words. Rev. Dr. T. George, of Seattle, supported the motion in an able and telling speech, and was followed by Rev. Dr. Carman. The resolution was then put and carried by a rising vote of the ministerial members of the conference, that Rev. Messrs. P. Hicks, C. H. M. Sutherland, W. D. Misener, J. C. Spencer and George H. Morden be received into the ministry of the Methodist church.

At to-day's session the first business was the debate on the report of the Memorial committee.

The General Superintendent, as representative of the General Conference, could not allow the amendment to the amendment or the amendment to go to vote by the Conference, as both were ultra vires of the powers of the Conference. He did not wish to fetter the debate, but thought both must be ruled out of order.

On the formal presentation of the report it had been moved that the item re invitations to ministers by separate circuits be adopted.

An amendment was offered asking for the discontinuance of circuit invitations. An amendment to the amendment was moved by Mr. D. Robson, seconded by Rev. Mr. Winslow, to the effect that the Conference express its disapproval of circuits inviting ministers.

The original item in the report was adopted, that the committee make no recommendations on the question of circuit invitations.

The remaining items of the report of the committee were then taken up.

Rev. J. P. Bowell gave notice of motion that the standing resolution of the Conference, re invitations to ministers from other Conferences, be expunged from the journal.

The second item of the Memorial committee's report, re the restoration of the old basis of salaries for domestic missionaries, was then read.

Rev. J. H. White moved an amendment, that the basis be restored for the whole Conference, and that Kamloops District be especially considered because of its greater need owing to the high price of living, and, further, that the chairman of that district be given special liberty to travel throughout that district, in order to assist the various church pastors. The amendment was carried.

The next item asked for the appointment of a superintendent of missions for the conference.

Rev. J. H. White moved a substitute, asking that the Missionary Society provide for additional pay to the chairman of missionary districts for such purposes as were contemplated in the original item. The substitute was carried.

The item referring to the Church Building extension fund was not entertained.

The property at present held by the Central church, in this city, in the west end and at Sapperton, was transferred to the trustees of those congregations. The Mission City church was given permission to exchange certain lots in that city.

The report of the Memorial committee was then adopted as amended.

The Epworth League committee reported an increase of four leagues and thirty-five membership. They also recommended that every effort be made to form new societies, and that pastors be asked to help such work; every league to be represented at the coming convention in Vancouver on June 14 to 19. Greater care will be exercised in the appointment of officers in the local leagues. The report was adopted as read.

The Committee on Statistics reported an increase of church members of 235, and that, while there was a decrease in the amounts given to the connectional funds and all purposes of $11,000, this was accounted for by the great financial stringency felt in the Province, also from the fact that large and expensive churches in Victoria (Pandora avenue and the Centennial) had been erected, and consequently the amounts reported there had been unusually great. They also reported the lack of uniformity in filling up the circuit schedules for the annual meetings, as some missions had not reported in the proper column the amounts incurred for travelling expenses on the circuit.

The report was adopted.

Rev. J. H. White introduced W. T. Cooksley, President of the Provincial Epworth League, who was warmly received and made a brief speech, specially asking the co-operation of the ministers with this organization.

The report of the temperance committee was presented, and referred back for amendment.

The report of the Board of Examiners was presented by Rev. S. J. Thompson, and was adopted so far as read.

The annual meeting of the Theological Union was held, this afternoon, at 2:30, when Rev. E Robson delivered the annual lecture, taking for his subject "The History of Methodism in British Columbia."

Ministers Travelling West—Proposed Monument to Governor Simcoe—Willard Tract Society In Difficulties.

TORONTO, May 13.—(Special)—Hon. Mr. Haggart, minister of railways and canals, and Hon. Mr. Patterson, minister of militia, spent yesterday with friends. They left last night for the Rockies, accompanied by Senator McLaren and Dr. Montague, M.P.

Yesterday a deputation representing the Pioneer and Historical Association waited upon the Government and asked that a monument be erected to Governor Simcoe near the Legislative buildings. It was promised that the subject would be considered.

The Willard Tract Depository in this city is in financial difficulties, and is being wound up. The institution was started fourteen years ago. The stock valued at $50,000, has been sold at the rate of 50 cents on the dollar to a Chicago publishing house, which will hereafter conduct the business under the old name.

The Toronto Kennel club exhibition was formally opened this morning by the Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Kirkpatrick. The attendance was very large. About 200 dogs are being shown, many of which will go to the World's Fair.

GERMANY'S PROSPECTS.

Nothing Upon Which to Form an Approximate Idea as to the Elections.

Political Complications—France Reported to be Rejoiced at the Rejection of Army Bill.

BERLIN, May 13.—The first week of the electoral struggle ends without any of the parties knowing where they stand; without any of them having any reliable data from which to forecast the result of the contest for members of the Reichstag. The leaders of the Social Democracy alone seek to retain a thorough grip upon their organization. They have, to-night, one hundred and forty-two candidates in the field, and can now reasonably hope to secure fifty-five seats, a gain of nineteen over the number held by the party in the last Reichstag. From the unprecedented number of candidates appearing, it will be impossible for the results of the first day's polling, on June 15, to decide the general issue, and it is expected that the vote on that day will certainly establish the political character of the new House.

It is thought that over one hundred second ballots will be necessary to decide the election, and it is therefore highly probable that the planks of the Conservative platform already decided upon are protection and bi-metallism. In the absence of recognized party leaders, and a party manifesto, some members of the Centre party will figure as influential Democratic Catholics. Dr. Sigel, a rabid anti-Prussian, will stand for election in Munich as a Catholic Democrat, and his programme is undoubtedly a significant feature of the campaign. As regards South Germany, each party seems determined to spend every available resource in contesting the districts where it has the remotest chance of success. Indeed, in many instances candidates will stand where success appears impossible. Thus, in Berlin the Centrists will contest every district, although they know the Catholic vote is certain to be swamped by the immense preponderance of the Freisseninge and Socialist votes. In some constituencies each of the eight recognized parties has a candidate in the field.

The contest is further complicated by class interests, which are demanding attention. The Agrarian league demands special pledges before giving its support to candidates. The trading guilds insist upon being heard, and the anti-Semites, bi-Metallists and a host of faddists, are making a turmoil, which will not cease until the first day's balloting clears the atmosphere and brings into prominence the grand principles at stake. The retirement of Count von Ballesterm and other Centrist leaders, is under reconsideration. The bulk of the party shrinks from the prospect Dr. Leiber becoming the leader of the party. Under him the Democrats will proceed at full pressure. The aristocratic element of the party views such a project with dismay. Dr. Lieber's recent declaration that he was a Prussian against his will and his attacks on the monarchical principle have made it impossible for him to be recognized as chief of a United Centre party. The two wings of the Freisinninge party have started in with opposing candidates in Berlin and elsewhere. The Freisinninge organizations, however, generally support Herr Eugene Richter, the leader of the faction known as the Radical People's party.

The government organs carefully reproduce the reports of the French papers as to how France is rejoiced at the rejection of the Army bill, adding sinister remarks regarding the designs of the French government. They also publish doubtful telegrams from Strasburg, reporting that the French garrisons on the frontier have already been, or are being, reinforced, and that the granting of furloughs to all French soldiers and officers has been stopped. The alarm which these organs profess to feel has not spread among the people. Everyone knows that the rejection has neither diminished the defence strength of the Triple Alliance nor added to the defensive power of France. Outside of Chancellor Von Caprivi's organ the idea is ridiculed that France and Russia will attack Germany because the Reichstag refused to grant all the Government demanded. An echo from some foreign quarter has reached here in regard to a newly published ukase ordering the wholesale expulsion of Hebrews from Russian Poland. By inquiries made it has been ascertained that the alleged outbreak of persecution is a myth. In the autumn manœuvres of the German army on the vastest scale ever attempted, will be held between Treves, Metz and Strasburg. Emperor William has invited the Emperor of Austria, the King of Italy, the Duke of York, the Duke of Connaught and all the German Princes to attend the manœuvres.

VIENNA, May 13.—Several hundred striking carpenters attacked in this city to-day the men who had been employed to do their work. They fought the police called to disperse them, and six or seven of them received sabre wounds. Many of them were arrested during the conflict.

The auditor of the city will be offered $60 a month for all work ordered to be done (he now gets $10 for specified work) and if he declines another auditor will be appointed.

Bishop Carman, the general superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada, will deliver the inaugural address at the Y.M.C.A. opening.

Mr. Farley, who fell off Bell-Irving & Patterson's wharf into the Inlet and was taken to the hospital, it was thought had entirely recovered. Last night he took a relapse and died this morning.

WESTMINSTER.

WESTMINSTER, May 13.—The number of fishing licenses issued to date was 294. Of these about 40 were taken out by Japanese, and about a score by Indians. The remainder were white men. No Chinese have applied. Inspector McNabb expects that the total number this season will reach 900. The following fisheries guardians have been appointed and have left for their stations: McNish and O'Connor, the Skeena river; Wm. Roxbury, Rivers Inlet; J. S. Spain, the Naas river.

The Western Canadian Press Association excursion (comprising editors, with their wives, of the newspapers of Manitoba and the Northwest, making up a party of 75), which left Winnipeg on the 10th, will arrive at Vancouver on Monday and take in this city on the following day (Tuesday). The party will probably be taken on an excursion up the river, and shown the leading points of interest in and around the city. The Mayor and Council, as well as the Board of Trade, will take part in their reception.

NANAIMO.

NANAIMO, May 13.—There is a promising outlook for an interesting legal suit between St. Paul's and St. Alban's churches, over a claim made by the latter for a share in the land until recently believed to be the absolute property of the former. 'Way back in '64 the Vancouver Coal company donated certain lands to the Church of England in Nanaimo, the deeds were made out in the bishop's name, and it was expressly stipulated therein that the lands be not sold, leased or used for any secular purpose. Some years later, the company made out new deeds, in which permission was given the church to lease part of the property, and give an option of purchase at the end of the leasehold period. Accordingly, a block of land at the corner of Chapel and Church streets was leased for ten years to Messrs. H. R. Johnson & Co., with the option of purchase at the end of that time for, it is stated, the sum of $7,000. That time is now nearly up, and it is understood that the aforementioned had made arrangements to buy the property. Meanwhile, owing to dissensions in the congregation of St. Paul's, a new church had been established in the south end of town, named St. Alban's. This new church started on its career with great flourish of trumpets, also with a large debt, which latter has been increasing even more rapidly than the congregation. Recently, in discussing ways and means, the committee of this church of St. Alban's discovered, apparently with no little surprise, that it was quite probable that they might be able to establish an equitable claim for half the property deeded by the Coal company to the church in Nanaimo, and, as aforesaid, supposedly the property of St. Paul's exclusively. Deeds were hunted up and lawyers queried and the matter finally laid before the Synod, with whom now rests the disposal of the land in question. This body, at a recent meeting of its executive, has left the matter in the hands of its finance committee, adding thereto, for the purpose of just procedure, the rectors of the respective churches. It is not known yet when this committee will meet, but both congregations are awaiting with anxiety the result of its deliberations.

A branch of the Merchants' Retail Commercial Agency of Chicago, Ill., was organized last night. Mayor Haslam was elected president; J. Paterson, vice-president; A. R. Enley, secretary, and Geo. Norris, treasurer. The following executive committee was also duly appointed: J. H. Pleace, J. J. Sehl, J. Stannard, J. B. L. Jones (Wellington), and W. T. Heddle.

Sailed, ship Skofield; bark Wilna, for San Francisco.

UNION

UNION, May 12.—An accident occurred on Friday last in the No. 4 slope. It appears that a train of loaded cars was being hauled to the surface, accompanied by a white man and a Chinaman, when by some means the rope parted and the cars rushed back down the declivity with great speed. The white man escaped, but the Chinaman was terribly crushed, both his legs being broken. The poor fellow was speedily borne to the surface and dispatched by train to his home. Dr. Callahan was summoned, but on his arrival the Chinaman had breathed his last. His remains were interred in the new cemetery on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Grant, of the sawmill, has obtained the contract for removing the stumps from the grounds of the public school here, and his mammoth stumper has been at work during the week with good results.

The house formerly occupied by Mr. Alex. Walker is being fitted up as a residence for Rev. J. H. Higgins.

The ship C. F. Sargeant is loading 2,600 tons of coal and coke for San Francisco, to sail Saturday.

Rev. Jno. Robson, B.A., left via Comox on Tuesday to attend the Methodist Conference at New Westminster.

Mr. J. B. Holmes, of Comox, has issued posters notifying the public that he intends applying for a license to sell liquor at the Nelson House, near Union wharf. The matter of licenses comes up on the 15th inst., and it is generally believed that Mr. Holmes will be successful.

The Joan arrived on Wednesday with an unusually heavy cargo and a large number of passengers, among whom were a large number of Japanese on a visit to the mines. Mr. A. Dick, Government Inspector of Mines, came up on the periodical trip of inspection.

Quite a number of Unionists intend celebrating the 24th by a grand picnic at Mt. Pleasant, Denman Island, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pikett.

Mr. G. B. Powell, of the Dominion Clothing Co., Montreal, is in town.

A neat railing is being put up around the residence of American Consular Agent Clinton; Mr. Bruno Mellado has charge of the work.

Superintendent Little is confined to his room by an acute attack of rheumatism. He is improving and expects to be around in a day or day.

The Methodist Ladies' Aid Society are preparing a rare treat for the people of Union in the form of a public concert and entertainment. The principal feature is a tambourine drill, etc., by twelve children in costume. The proceeds will be devoted to the new church building fund.

The Presbyterians have selected a site for their new church, and stenuous efforts are being made to raise the funds for the building. They will give a concert and entertainment at Comox on the 25nd inst., in aid of the fund.

At the close of the prayer meeting on Thursday evening, the Presbyterians, along with other friends, presented their retiring pastor, Rev. Alex. Fraser, with a beautiful solid gold watch in a handsome case. The address was read by Mr. Duncan Ross, and the presentation made by Mr. W. Mitchell. The Rev. gentleman had been hastily summoned by telephone and was quite unaware of the nature of the meeting until his arrival. He made a very feeling reply, heartily thanking every one for such a handsome mark of their esteem. The watch bears the following inscription: "Presented to the Rev. Alex. Fraser by his friends in Union, B.C., May, 1893."

The Joan takes down another consignment of blacksmith coal to the Nanaimo carriage works to-day.

INVERNESS.

INVERNESS, May 4.—All the canneries on the Skeena are running full time, making cans and preparing nets for the season's pack.

The new cannery at Inverness, which is the largest and most improved on the Northern coast, is now completed, and will start packing as soon as any.

Cunningham's dog fish establishment on Poacher Island is working at its full capacity; more fish are being caught than can be conveniently disposed of.

The lumber mills on the Skeena have been kept busy for the past few weeks filling cannery orders for boxes, etc.

Williscroft Bros'. steamer Nell has been busy for the past fortnight delivering boxes on the Naas and Skeena rivers.

The H. B. Co. steamer Caledonia passed up the Skeena May 3. She expects to go as far as the canyon, where they store the outpost supplies, and, when the water in the river is suitable, run them to Hazelton, the head of navigation.

The large rocks in the canyon have been successfully taken out, which will make the running of the Caledonia far less dangerous.

Bishop Ridley, of Metlakahtla, was a passenger on the Caledonia; he goes up the Skeena to visit his mission stations.

Plans are now out and tenders being asked for, for the building of an English church at Port Simpson. A new church is also being erected at Claxton.

On the evening of May 1 a social and concert was held by the white settlers of Port Simpson assisted by the officers of the U. S. ship Patterson.

The largest boom of logs ever brought to the Skeena was towed in by the Chieftain last week. It consisted of red and yellow cedar and contained over 900,000 feet. The boom belongs to R. Cunninghame & Son, and the yellow cedar will be prepared for the Victoria market.

Government Agent Flewin has received notice that no liquor license will be granted to the Northern hotels this year.

The hotels Cunningham and Claxton are now opened for the accommodation of guests.

The Salvation Army among the Indians is running at full blast; they make the night hideous, but still the good work goes on. The paint and potlatch is a thing of the past, while the red banner, with the motto "Fire and Blood," has full sway.

It is reported that invitations for a grand ball, to take place at the Hotel Cunningham, Port Essington, will soon be out.

DUNCAN.

DUNCAN, May 13.—A. W. Jones and G. H. Barnard made a good catch of trout (including a seven-pounder) in the Cowichan river, returning to Victoria on Wednesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Musgrave, Somenos lake, travelled down to Victoria on Thursday and returned to-day.

Indian Agent Lomas returned from Nanaimo yesterday.

A. Gabriel killed a female panther on the Cowichan lake road, near Mr. H. Evans', on Tuesday last.

The notices of assessment of real estate in the municipality of North Cowichan were mailed on Wednesday. The valuations generally are considerably higher and the rate per cent. has been raised from one-third to one-half of one per cent., with the laudable object, it is said, of providing funds to improve the municipal roads.

Mrs. Ashdown Green and child are staying at the Quamichan hotel.

W. Chisholm, H. O. Wellburn, James Brae, J. W. Flett and R. Tansey went down to Victoria by Saturday morning's train.

Major Peters arrived up to-day to try his luck in the Cowichan river.

BURGOYNE BAY.

BURGOYNE BAY, May 12.—There was a large gathering at the Burgoyne Bay schoolhouse on Thursday evening to witness a magic lantern exhibition by Rev. J. B. Haslam, incumbent of Salt Spring. The evening was made the occasion of a special social, singing and readings, etc., being introduced at intervals. The exhibition was not only enjoyable, but highly instructive, the reverend gentleman presenting a series of astronomical slides and explaining each one, to the great enjoyment of the older members of the audience. The comic slides were exceedingly amusing, and it need scarcely be added that the young people received each picture with roars of laughter. Mr. A. W. Cooke presided, who with short notice presented a most appreciable programme to the audience. Among those who took part in the latter were Mrs. Lee, whose singing, as usual, was received with applause; Mrs. Horel, Mrs. A. Raines, Messrs. Cartwright, Raines, Wilson and Cooke, besides many of the pupils. Mr. Cooke's reading of "Excelsior," as rendered by Paddy, and given with the real Irish brogue, was received with loud laughter and applause. At the close of the proceedings a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Haslem in particular and the ladies and gentlemen in general who contributed to the evening's enjoyment. The singing of "God Save the Queen" brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

"Brace Up"

Is a tantalizing admonition to those who at this season feel all tired out, weak, without appetite and dis ouraged. But the way in which Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the tired frame and gives a new appetite, is really wonderful. So we say, "Take Hood's and it will brace you up."

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills.

Presentation of a Handsome Souvenir Jewel to Brother Gustav Leiser, P. G. M.

Establishment of a New Lodge of the I. O. F. and Something About Its Insurance Benefits.

Mr. Gustav Leiser, first grand master of the B. C. Grand lodge,. A.O.U.W., had a fitting honor conferred upon him on Wednesday evening last, when on behalf of the members of the order in the Province, he was presented with a handsome and valuable jewel, emblematic of the high position he occupied. The presentation was made by Grand Master Marcus Wolfe, of Nanaimo, who made a special visit to Victoria to be present at the ceremony. There were also present a number of members from the Mainland, who likewise had come down to attend the meeting at which Mr. Leiser was to be honored.

The jewel is a chaste and handsome piece of work. It was made by Messrs Challoner & Mitchell, of this city, and shows on the body the raised shield and anchor with the letters A.O.U.W.,—this being the emblem of the order. The background represents the sun's rays in gold in the centre of a green wreath. The base is connected to the bars by a gold chain, the prominent link of which is set with a diamond, while between the bars is shown an open Bible in enamel, and surmounting the whole another green wreath. The engraving is as follows:

"To our first Grand Master, Gus Leiser—Presented to Bro. Gus Leiser, P. G. M., by the members of the A. O. U. W., B. C. Jurisdiction, May 10, 1893."

Needless to say, Mr. Leiser was much pleased at the presentation, which was a public and official recognition of his services to the order at that period of the existence of the Grand lodge in British Columbia, when the best efforts had to be put forth to establish it upon a firm and satisfactory footing. In course of his reply he expressed his high appreciation of the honor, and his hope that the prosperity and progress of the past might be more than increased in the future.

The delegates to the Supreme Grand lodge, A O U.W., which meets in Toronto on June 22, are Messrs. G. Leiser, H. Hoy and Wm. Keary, who will leave on the 10th of June, going to the Queen City of Ontario via the C.P R. On the return trip they will probably take in Chicago and the great World's Fair.

A meeting of Columbia lodge No. 2 will be held on Wednesday evening for the consideration of by-laws. Some general business will also be discussed.

The Enderby lodge will be organized on Monday, May 15, with a good charter membership. This promises to be a very prosperous lodge.

At Victoria West last Friday evening the fourth court for this city of the Independent Order of Foresters, consisting of twenty-nine charter members, was instituted by Capt. Holden, D S C R, assisted by D.S. C.R. Geo. A. Grant, C.D S.C. Rangers R. C. Douglas and J. H. Falconer and Bros. Major, Wilkins and McEachran. The insurance in the above court in the amounts taken out by the several members represents $40,000. In case of permanent disability each member receives immediately one-half the amount of his insurance. Members living to old age (seventy years) receive an annuity of one, two or three hundred dollars, as the case may be, according to the amount for which they are insured, and will continue to draw this amount each year until they draw out the amount due them on their policy. All members are entitled to, and may receive the amount of their policy in full on reaching their expectation of life should they see fit to enter for it. Besides the above and the fraternal and social benefits which an order like the "I. O F" gives to its members, each secures for himself free medical attendance, and by the arrangement of the several courts of this city, is also supplied with medicine without charge and a surgical operation if required. The order also gives its members sick benefits of $3 and $5 per week from the first day's illness, to which they are entitled immediately after passing the medical board, and on death, $50, will be paid toward funeral expenses.

An encampment of "Royal Foresters" (a uniform rank) will be instituted about the 24th of May; immediately afterwards a court of "Juvenile Foresters" will be instituted in this city. Arrangements are now being made for the instituting of a "High Court" for the Province of British Columbia in June or early in July, this year. The fullest possible information will be gladly given by D.S.C.R. Capt. Holden, now in the city.

Canton Victoria, No 1, held their annual installation of officers last evening, Captain W. E Holmes presiding. The following officers were installed for the ensuing year: M. G. Blanchard, Captain; A. G. Day, Lieutenant; A. Henderson, Ensign; J. A. Grant, Clerk; Past Captain W. E. Holmes, Accountant; T. E Waller, Standard-bearer. This canton is rapidly gaining members, and it is hoped in the near future they will turn out for a street parade.

Victoria lodge, No. 1, held their regular meeting on Monday evening, when considerable business was transacted. One candidate was admitted into the mysteries of Odd Fellowship, and the following brothers appointed upon the excursion committee: W. E. Holmes, P G; A. G Day, P.G., and Bro. Haggart News has been received of the death of Bro. Mat. Richards, a very old member of this lodge, in Cassiar. His body will be brought here for burial.

In addition to routine work in Dominion lodge No. 4 on Thursday evening, a special committee, consisting of Bros. P. G., L Cousins, P. G, J E Phillips and P. G, R. Drake, was appointed to act in conjunction with committees from the other lodges to arrange for the annual excursion, and after some discussion the lodge decided that Seattle is the most desirable place to visit. The first nomination for officers for the next term was made, with Bro D Curtis nominated for N G, A. R. Gould for V. G., T. Bamford for recording and permanent secretary, and P. A. Babington for treasurer.

Columbia lodge No. 2, on Wednesday evening, after disposing of routine business, duly initiated a candidate into the mysteries of Odd Fellowship. The lodge then resolved itself into committee, and resumed consideration of the amended by-laws. Article XV, relating to the terms of admission of members, was amended so as to give a slightly lower rate for young men from 21 to 30 years of age; and Article XVIII (membership) was changed so as to accord with Article XV., and also with the usual practice of the lodge. At 11 o'clock the committee rose, reported progress, and was granted permission to sit again at the next meeting of the lodge. The first nomination for officers for the ensuing term will take place next Wednesday evening; the election will be on the 31st inst.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of Acme lodge, No. 14, I.O.O.F., last Monday evening, it being the last meeting at which Noble Grand Charles A. Strong would preside previous to his departure for Albuquerque, New Mexico. Expressions of regret at his departure were made by Past Grands McMillan, Carson and O'Neill and Bro. Treasurer Jackson. Mr. Strong will leave on the City of Puebla this morning, and all brothers who can make it convenient are requested to be at the steamer. There were two applications for membership and one initiation. The first number of the lodge paper, "The Quiver," was read by P. G. Myers and was well received.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Next Saturday evening will be a red letter night in the history of Sunset lodge, No. 10, for then the grand reception will be held, arrangements for which have been so long under way. From eight to eleven o'clock Castle Hall, Broad street, will be open to friends and relatives of the Knights, and during these hours a promenade concert will be held. The committee who have had in hand the task of making preparations for this event have spared no pains to get everything in readiness to give their guests a thoroughly good time. Admission will be by card. All members of local lodges desiring to get cards for themselves or friends can obtain the same by calling on Bro. Levin, who, in order to accommodate Knights, will be at Castle Hall on Tuesday and Friday evenings.

On Tuesday Sunset lodge No. 10 will receive an official visit from Far West lodge. Last week Bro. F. Saul was elected vice-chancellor and was duly installed in office. On Thursday evening the rank of knight was conferred.

Members of Far West lodge No. 1 are requested to meet at Castle hall at 8 p.m. to pay an official visit to Sunset lodge No. 10. Victoria Division No. 2 will drill at the Market hall on Monday and Thursday evenings. On Friday evening Far West lodge will confer the degree of page.

SONS OF ST. GEORGE.

Milton lodge of the above order will hold its regular session on Monday evening, on which occasion a full lodge is expected, for, it being the end of the first half-yearly term, there is an accumulation of business interesting to the members individually as well as collectively. Nominations for the various appointments will also be received, and delegates appointed to attend the Grand Convention, which convenes in July.

SONS OF ENGLAND.

Alexandria lodge No. 116 Sons of England, Red Rose degree, meet in Foresters' hall on Wednesday, May 18, when all members are requested to be present. One of the matters to be discussed is in connection with the final arrangements for a church parade.

A. O. F.

New circles of Companions of the Forest are shortly to be established at Nanaimo and Vancouver. The organization of the circle at the Terminal City will take place next week, and in order to assist in the ceremonies attending, a number of members of the Victoria circle are making arrangements to go up to the Mainland. They have made an agreement for special excursion rates, and hope this inducement will enable quite a number of the local members here to accompany the party. Twelve new members of the Victoria circle were initiated at the last meeting. On the 21st inst. an entertainment is to be given, the committee in charge promising to present a most attractive programme.

I. O. O. F. M. U.

At the regular meeting of Loyal Occidental lodge, No. 7177, I.O.O.F.M.U., Bro. A. M. Muir in the chair, among other business a resolution was passed that the next meeting of the lodge be held on May 31, instead of the 24th, which is a public holiday, and a full attendance of members is requested. At the conclusion of business a social hour passed with songs, recitations, instrumental selections, stories of early life in Victoria, etc., etc. Any member of unity lodges, in good standing, will be made welcome.

SENT UP FOR TRIAL.

James and Arthur Seaton Committed on a Charge of Removing Seized Property.

Chief Magistrate Macrae, in his capacity as Stipendiary Magistrate, sat, yesterday, in the Provincial court, to hear the evidence against James and Arthur Seaton, charged with the larceny of goods under seizure. Mr. Robert Cassidy appeared for the private prosecutor, Mr. R. T. Williams; Mr. Lindley Crease for the defence.

The offence alleged is defined in sec. 50, of chap 164, Revised Statutes of Canada, as follows:

"Any one who, whether pretending to be the owner or not, secretly or openly, and whether with or without force or violence takes or carries away, or causes to be taken away, without lawful authority, any property under lawful seizure, and steals such property, is guilty of a felony, and liable to be punished accordingly."

The circumstances in the present case as related by the witnesses for the prosecution, were told by the prosecutor and the bailiff. Mr. Williams said that in January, 1888, he had rented to the accused, lots 3 and 4, James Island, at $100 a year, payable half yearly in advance. The accused had only paid one year's rent since then, and had not done as promised in respect to making improvements, etc. He had wished him to leave the place, but Seaton declined to vacate, although Mr. Williams offered to pay for his transportation to Victoria and to pay six months' house rent here for him. Failing to get him to leave quietly, Mr. Williams had R. C. Ward, bailiff, seize certain chattels for a claim of $470, of which $450 was rent and $20 taxes.

Mr. Ward, the bailiff, deposed that he had served a copy of the demand for rent on the accused, who had not disputed the amount. He had subsequently, on April 27, seized the chattels, and on May 2, when he held the sale, there were missing certain articles, including a boat, cow, sewing machine, rifle and shot gun. He had warned accused not to take the things away.

Under the provisions of the law, no defence is allowed to be made on the preliminary investigation into a charge of an indictable offence. The accused reserved their defence, and were committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction, bail being allowed in the sum of $400, $200 personal, and $200 which was given by Mr. C E Redfern. The case will come up on Monday or Tuesday at the Assize court.

An interesting fact about this prosecution is that it is the first one of the kind in Canada under this Act, and, moreover, there is no such clause in the English Act.

4 Miles (about) Standing Fences, in good order; Corralls, 10 miles barbed wire and staples; about 2,500 Posts on the ground, ready for use, etc., etc.

Small Lot Household Furniture, Stove and Pipes, Cooking Utensils, Crockery, etc., etc.

This Property is within easy distance of many of the most important Gold, Silver and Coal Mines in West Kootenay. The population of this district will increase this year by at least 10,000; the area of farm land is very limited, and from this it may be fairly asserted that beef and all classes of farm produce will find a ready and lucrative market. The soil is the best bottom land, and the locality is one of the few places in the Province where so large a piece of good farm land can be found in one block. A river runs through the property, and rainbow trout are plentiful and afford capital sport. Deer abound in considerable numbers. Bear, Wolf, Coyote and other large game are to be found in the hills. There are two creeks recorded and belonging to the estate, one flows all the year round. Limestone and brick clay are to be had in the valley.

The Cattle are well bred; a much larger herd could be farmed with the place. The bunch grass on the hills in the vicinity covers many thousands of acres, and is available to the few land owners in the valleys. All buildings and fences about the farm are in good order, and farming operations can be gone on with at once; about 180 acres of ploughing have been, so far, provided for this year's work.

The Climate is not severe, the land being about 1,100 feet above sea level; the station was for many years the winter quarters of the H. B. Co.'s pack trains. There is a weekly express in and out. Goods and supplies at wholesale can be procured on order and delivered in 48 hours.

The Title is by grant from the Crown, and is free of all encumbrances. Immediate possession can be given.

Important Railway works are now in progress within moderate distance, and two railway lines have been run to pass close to or through the estate, which can be reached in the spring in three days' journey from Victoria.

The South West Kootenay District, British Columbia, judging from the actual ore products of the mines this winter, is destined in the next year or two to become one of the richest and most important mineral centres in the world. Statistics show, that although the district is in its primary stage, the mines have developed ore veins rich enough to warrant the investment of over a million dollars. When these mines come to be worked systematically, there will be an

Influx of Population, which will require beef and farm produce in large quantities. The limited quantity of really good farm land in the district to supply these requirements makes this

THE LOCAL IMPROVEMENT PLAN AND THE SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

The main object in constructing sewers under a Local Improvement by-law would appear to be to cause the burden of taxation to fall upon those who derive benefit therefrom, and in proportion to the benefit so derived. Such a result cannot be attained in a city like Victoria by a general loan, which has to be paid alike by those who have the use of and derive direct benefit from the construction of the sewers, and those who only, at present and probably for a few years to come, may derive only such indirect benefit as may accrue from the generally improved hygienic conditions of the city.

It would appear that in assessing an area like that of the City of Victoria under the Local Improvement by-law, the classification should be made under two heads, the basis being the cost of the smallest sewer permissible.

It would be obviously inequitable to assess any person for the full cost of the large main passing his lot for the purpose of carrying the sewage from distant localities, when the small pipe would equally serve his purpose.

In dealing with the cost of the mains, it would seem to be fair that, as they are for the purpose of carrying the accumulated sewage of a certain area, that area should pay for them, while the cost of a lateral sewer should be based on that of the smallest permissible pipe, and should be charged to those whose position enables them to connect with the existing sewer.

To exemplify our meaning, let us suppose that the area tributary to the system has a frontage liable to taxation of 300,000 feet, that the total cost of the sewers of all sizes is $900,000, but that if all the sewers were the smallest permissible size, they would cost $600,000. In such a case it is clear that the additional cost due to the larger sewers will be $300,000. We have then first a charge of $1 a foot frontage for the construction of the mains, this being applicable from time to time as sewers were provided. For instance taking the same data, suppose in this area in the first year the mains were built and two-thirds of the lateral sewers; the frontage to be assessed would be 300,000 feet at $1, and 200,000 feet at $2. While it is believed that these figures are in excess of the actual cost even in so expensive a city to sewer as Victoria, it may be instructive to see what the annual rate would be on, let us suppose, the typical lot of sixty feet frontage, assuming the debentures to be payable in fifty years, and to bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum.

The annual charge for a lot of sixty feet frontage for mains alone would be $3.04 less a fraction of a cent., while the whole annual rate for the lot, after lateral sewers had been provided in the adjoining street, would be $9 less a fraction of a cent.

In the foregoing no provision has been made for house connections, nor do we know what course the Council propose to take. The usual method is for each owner to connect his property with the public sewer at his own expense.

Our correspondent, Senator Macdonald, has very ably pointed out the difficulties and complications which would possibly arise under the Local Improvement by law. These do not, however, appear to us insuperable, provided the work is carried out judiciously; to deal with them seriatim it appears to us that:

1. The rate should be fixed so as to provide for the existing loan, and relieve all parties from any further taxation for sewerage purposes other than that called for under the Local Improvement Act.

2. If a property holder pays at once the full cost chargeable to his property, he would naturally be relieved from further taxation, and the amount would be paid into the sinking fund.

3. We do not understand that it is proposed to procure small loans on small areas, but to negotiate the sale of debentures for the requisite amount, such debentures to be issued from time to time as funds are required.

4. There would be a fiscal annual tax on each lot, and there is no reason to suppose that this tax would be harder to collect than any other is now, or has been.

5. Defaulters would have to be compelled to pay; though why there should be defaulters as regards this tax more than any other we fail to see.

6. We understand that it is proposed to pay for the whole sewerage system under the Local Improvement plan, in which case the question of using General Revenue for the purpose cannot arise.

7. In dealing with the question of Local Improvement, it would be unnecessary and most inexpedient to treat each block separately; all blocks being equally interested, the majority should rule.

"A FAIR INDEX."

The Times in its zeal to back up the contentions of Mr. Brown and the other Mainland agitators, endeavors to ridicule the idea of taking the school children as a standard of comparison in estimating the population of the Mainland and the Island. The rubbish about the electoral districts, on which it wastes its space, is beneath contempt. Its way of accounting for the discrepancy, which must exist, if the white population of the Mainland is ten or twelve thousand more than that of the Island, as the Times and its Mainland allies contend, cannot in the estimation of any sensible man, be considered satisfactory. The School Inspector's Report shows that the school children enrolled on the Mainland, number 5,391, and those on the Island, 5,382. What we asked was: Do these figures lead to the conclusion that there is a large preponderence of white people on the Mainland—that and nothing more. The number of children enrolled in the schools is, in this, as well as in every other country where a public school system is in operation, as good an index of the population, outside the census, as can be found. To say that the population of the Mainland is so scattered as to account for the discrepancy is, in our opinion, very unreasonable. To establish a school in a district requires only a daily average of ten children, and we do not believe that there are many settlements on the Mainland so scattered that they cannot make up this small average. Besides, the great bulk of the population of the Mainland is very far, indeed, from being scattered.

McCARTHY'S MISTAKE.

Mr. Dalton McCarthy, who aspires to be a leading man in this Dominion, is reported to have said at Orangeville, Ont., a few days ago: "I say it is a disgrace that after more than one hundred years since this country was ceded to Great Britain that in the city of Quebec, where the gallant Wolfe laid down his life for his country, the English language is hardly spoken." This is no disgrace, but it would be a deep disgrace to the British name if Britain had so tyrannized over the French inhabitants of Lower Canada as to endeavor to prevent their using their mother tongue. Men who possess the true British spirit are proud to know that, in the government of Canada, their country has made no distinction between Englishmen and Frenchmen. All had equal liberties and privileges, and there was absolutely nothing to remind the Canadian who were the conquerors and who the conquered.

The inhabitant of Canada can speak what language it pleases him to speak, and to worship God in the way that his judgment and his conscience dictate.

There are many parts of Canada in which English is not the language of the household. This was the case to a far greater extent thirty or forty years ago than it is now. There were large settlements in which Gaelic alone was spoken. Germans are, and properly so, very tenacious of their mother tongue: Welsh settlers spoke the language of their native country, and so did the Scandinavians. The law did not interfere with them in this matter. They were all eager to embrace every opportunity that was afforded them of learning English, for the simple reason that English is, in Canada, the language of business and of general literature. They soon saw that the man or the woman who did not understand English was at a great disadvantage in almost every walk of life. The young people, therefore, quickly became proficient in the language of the country, and in time, many of them ceased to talk, and even to understand, the tongue of their ancestors.

It takes much longer to effect this change—which is inevitable—in Lower Canada than in the isolated settlements of non-English speaking people in the other provinces, simply because the French of that colony formed a very large community, and for a long time comparatively few English people settled among them. But many of them did learn English, and the number of French Canadians who have mastered that tongue well enough to speak and to read it intelligently is becoming, proportionately to the great mass of the population, greater an greater every year. The reason of this is not because the Government wants them to learn English, or because the law of the land compels them to get a knowledge of that tongue, but because they find it to their interest to be able to speak English as well as French. Self-interest will, in a natural and pleasant way, bring about the change which Mr. McCarthy—if there is any meaning in what he says—deplores has not been hastened by the action of law, which would certainly be regarded as harsh and tyrannical. People of spirit would resent being legislated out of their mother tongue. The course which the British and Canadian Governments have pursued has been wiser, more liberal, more enlightened, more consistent, as well as more politic, than the one which Mr. McCarthy regrets they did not take. The true Canadian should feel proud that his Government has not attempted to compel any resident of Canada to abandon his mother tongue and to adopt the language of the English people.

ABOUT PROFANITY.

Edward Cary, in the May number of the Century Magazine, writes about "the decline of profanity." Most people are under the impression that profanity has not declined and is not declining. Profane language, they deplore, is used by multitudes, and it is heard almost everywhere. Many are shocked to see that it has found its way into literature and that oaths and profane expletives, instead of being indicated by dashes and asteriks, are spelled out and appear in all their vulgar profaneness. "Men swear," they say, "boys swear and, humiliating to confess, even women and girls have been known to use language which is most objectionable in men, and which no gentleman could bring himself to utter in the presence of a lady."

There is, we fear, too much truth in this complaint. Profane language is by far too common, and the mincing, mealy-mouthed substitutes for oaths which some people use only show what they would say if the oaths themselves were not considered in the circle in which they move "bad form." But are not these nonsensical expressions a sign that profanity is on the decline, that it is going out of fashion? There may be too much profanity now, but was there not a great deal more thirty, forty, fifty and more years ago? We have good warrant for believing that the army swore terribly in Flanders, and those who have read the novels of three or four generations ago, know that language was then commonly used by gentlemen, and we fear ladies, that would not be tolerated among people laying any claim to respectability now. Those who are pretty well up in years have heard in their day some very hard swearing, and much wanton and altogether senseless profanity. It seems that in these days there is not so much profanity and it is of a much milder form than formerly.

The indications are that profanity is getting out of fashion. Why it is so is hard to tell. Mr. Cary asks: "Are we becoming more pious? That is not the general impression. Is the fiber of the race softening? That is often maintained, but I do not think successfully." Whatever may be the cause of the change, it is, no doubt, a good one, and we trust it will go on doing its work, until the man who has contracted the habit of profane swearing will be set down by all decent people as an ill-bred fellow, with whom it would be wise to have very little to do.

M. QUAD'S HUMOR.

Mr. Bowser's Spring Suit Has an Unfortunate Effect on His Temper.

The "Kicker" on Western Banking Methods—"Hamlet" With the Cowboy Omitted.

[Copyright, 1893, by Charles B. Lewis.]

MR. AND MRS. BOWSER.

When Mr. Bowser's new spring suit was sent home by the tailor the other afternoon, Mrs. Bowser nerved herself for the impending crisis. He came home at the usual hour, and as she cast an anxious glance at his face she saw that he was in good humor. Indeed he was chuckling and smiling, and he was hardly inside the door when he broke out with:

"I saw the funniest thing on the car I ever witnessed! There was an old duffer with mutton chop whiskers, and he got up to give his seat to a woman. Just as he did so another—ha! ha! ha!—man—What's in that bundle, Mrs. Bowser?"

"Your new suit. What about the other man?"

"Why, you know, old mutton chops was bowing and scraping—ha! ha! ha!—and motioning the lady to take the seat when the other man— Hold on till I see the suit."

"I like the goods very much and must compliment you on your taste," broke in Mrs. Bowser as he broke the string.

"LOOK AT ME!"

"Now, by the whiskers of my father, but that sneaking, swindling, base hearted tailor hasn't made up the cloth I selected!" shouted Mr. Bowser in great indignation.

"Are you sure, dear? What goods did you select?"

"Why, diagonal, and the villain had the audacity to" —

"But this is diagonal, and very handsome and serviceable too."

"What! Don't you suppose I know a corkscrew from a diagonal? I could tell the difference 40 rods off with my eyes shut."

She ran up stairs and brought down several garments to prove that the new suit was what she stated it to be, and at length Mr. Bowser was half inclined to agree with her.

"It's just barely possible that this is the cloth I selected," he said as he went in to dinner, "but I don't propose to be taken for a yahoo. I'll try 'em on after a bit and see how they fit."

Mrs. Bowser would have been thankful to get out of the house for the evening, to have had company come in, even to have had a slight fire up stairs or down cellar to put off the crisis, but nothing happened.

"I'll just get into 'em and come down," observed Mr. Bowser as he picked up the garments and trotted up stairs. "If that tailor imagines I've just come in off the grass, he'll discover that he's made a sad mistake."

Ten minutes later as Mrs. Bowser was trying to quiet her jumping heart there came a scuff! scuff! scuff! on the stairs, followed by a tramp! tramp! tramp! in the hall, and then Mr. Bowser entered the sitting room. He was very pale. He stood and glared at Mrs. Bowser for a moment and then said:

"Well, behold your work! I hope you are satisfied now!"

"My work, Mr. Bowser! Why, what did I have to do with your suit? You didn't even tell me until after you had left your measure! What's wrong with the clothes?"

"Mrs. Bowser, look at me!" he replied as he stood before her with arm extended.

"Yes, I'm looking, and I say you've got the best fit you've had in three years."

"Fit! Fit! Why, he hasn't come within a million miles of fitting me! He's made me to look lop shouldered, hump backed and more like a scarecrow than I ever saw in a cornfield! See these trousers!"

"What's wrong with them?"

"What's right with them! Great Scott, but they are 40 rods too long and big enough to hold a load of hay. Mrs. Bowser, it's no wonder so many husbands murder their wives!"

"How am I to blame if your clothes don't fit?" she demanded, with considerable temper.

"And how am I?" he demanded in reply as he yanked off the coat and threw it down on a chair. "Look at that garment! Why, a tramp wouldn't be found dead in it! Look at this vest! I wouldn't be guilty of sending it to an African heathen. Look at these infernal, contemptible trousers! Were they made for a saw log or for a respectable law abiding member of this community?"

"They were made for you, and coat, vest and pants are an excellent fit. I don't know when I've seen better work. As for the cloth"——

"I go to a first class tailor," interrupted Mr. Bowser. "I select a soft finish diagonal. He takes about half a day to measure me. I try on that blamed old coat 400 times. I tell him over and over again that I want those pants 17½ on the knee. He sends me up a suit made of corkscrew or screwdriver or some other vile fabric woven for convicts, and the garments would fit a woven wire mattress as well as they do me! The worm turns at last! To-morrow"——

"To-morrow what?" she asked as he paused.

He made motions of wiping out a family—of killing three or four tailors—of holding the police at bay for a time and then taking a header into the river. Then he went tramp! tramp! tramp! through the hall and scuff! scuff! scuff! up stairs and got into his old suit, and during the rest of the evening he glared at Mrs. Bowser and gritted his teeth and read the evening paper by turns. She wisely held her peace, knowing how it would be. Two days later he was wearing the suit and even bragging about the excellent goods and fine fit.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

A WORD OF CAUTION.—We understand that parties are here from the east with a view of opening a bank with a capital of $25,000. This is good news, but we feel it our duty to give these strangers a word of caution. Our banking business is not conducted exactly on eastern principles. For instance, if one of our sterling business men like Colonel Hard should happen to want $10 some day and was put to the bother of signing a note and getting two or three indorsers he would naturally take it as a slur on his integrity and begin shooting. In the east they allow three days' grace on bank paper. Out here they always allow seven, and if the man carries two guns they spin it out to nine or ten and throw in a couple of Sundays. Depositors in the east take chances of the president wrecking a bank or the cashier absconding with the boodle. We are not built that way. About once a week our people call around to see how the machine is running, and they expect all inquiries to be satisfactorily answered. A bank official who leaves this town never takes any baggage with him and is always at great pains to explain why he goes and when he expects to return. Any bank will do well here, but it must be run on western ideas. Should a bank open here with a plan to fail after a year or two and pay depositors 50 cents on the dollar, it were better for the officials to go off and die now and save trouble.

DRAMATIC.—Two weeks ago, when the advance agent of "The Standard Theatrical company" billed this town for "Hamlet," we tried to give him some pointers. We thought we knew the people of this locality better than he did, but he was a young man with a swelled head and scorned our advice. There are certain things our theatre going public demand in the play of "Hamlet," and they must be given or there will be a row. At some period of the play at least one cowboy must gallop across the stage on his cayuse to give things a realistic appearance. There must be at least one barroom scene, and the bottles and glasses must be real. In each act there must be a song and dance to liven up things. Our people prefer a female dancer in tights, but will accept a colored man if he can clog well. A 4-round boxing match always takes well, but a trapeze performance can be substituted in case the boxers are not feeling well. We told the young man all these things, but he went his way. The company was greeted by a full house Tuesday evening. The audience waited patiently for the cowboy, the barroom and the song and dance, but they did not show up. A committee waited on the manager to ask what was wrong, and he said they were playing "Hamlet," as it was played in New York, Boston, Chicago and elsewhere, and he refused to put in any improvements for our benefit. This of course brought a climax. For a few minutes it looked as if the boys would proceed to extremes, but wiser counsels prevailed, and they were finally satisfied with a return of the admission. The company had to leave part of its baggage here to secure the hotel bill, and at least two of the actors departed on foot. Every town has its idioms. What hits New York won't go down here at all, and what tickles Chicago or St. Louis makes us sad and serious. We want our "Hamlet" as we want it. We don't want anybody else's "Hamlet." The sooner this fact is thoroughly understood by theatrical companies heading this way the better for all concerned.

SHE WAS A WIDOW.

It was at a circus in a North Carolina town. The performance had begun when a little, old woman wearing a poke bonnet, white cotton gloves and a blue calico dress stepped up to the ticket wagon, laid down 25 cents and held out her hand for a ticket.

"Fifty cents, ma'am," said the man in the wagon.

"I'm a widder," she replied

"Can't help that."

"Bin a widder fur 13 years."

"Yes, but the price of a ticket is 50 cents."

"Buried two children sense I was a widder."

"That makes no difference."

She picked up her 25 cents and took a walk around and stopped at the wagon again to hand it up and say:

"Gimme a ticket to the show."

"Fifty cents, ma'am," replied the man.

"But I'm a widder."

"You told me that before, but we make no discount to widows."

"They never pass the contri'bushun box to me in church 'cause I'm a widder. Bin a widder fur 13 years."

"Well, you couldn't buy a ticket for 25 cents if you had been a widow for 30 years," he said as he turned away.

She picked up her two bits and traveled around the circus tent and stopped at the waggon for the third time.

"Ticket fur a widder," she said as she handed up her 25 cents.

"Look here, ma'am!" shouted the man, "haven't I told you that the price was 50 cents, and that you couldn't buy a ticket for less?

"A WIDDER."

"Bin a widder fur 13 years," she calmly replied.

"I don't care if you have been a widow from the cradle up! Don't bother me any more!"

She took her money and went off in the direction of the sideshow, where the fat boy was on exhibition, and I entered the circus tent. I had not been seated over five minutes when something from beneath the seats pulled at my leg and a voice whispered:

"Stranger, hitch along to the left and give a widder a show!"

I not only hitched, but assisted the little old woman in the poke bonnet to climb up beside me. When she had got her breath, I asked:

"Did the man sell you a ticket for two bits?"

"Noap. He un got no compashun on widders."

"Then how did you get in?"

"Same as I always do. Bin a widder fur 13 years, and I've crawled under the canvas 12 seazuns. Do you un feel like buyin a lone widder a glass of that air lemonade?"

A GOOD INDIAN.

The old man had a head so bald that one looked over its entire surface in vain for sight of a single hair. I wasn't going to ask him any questions, but after we had chatted away on general subjects for half an hour he suddenly said:

"You don't see many heads as bald as mine?"

"That's a fact."

"Probably strikes you as a case of typhoid fever?"

"That would account for it."

"It would, but it don't, stranger. That head is proof that an Injun has gratitude in his heart. Lots of folks contend that he hasn't, but I'm a living proof that they are wrong."

"I should like to hear your story."

"It's a short one. In the year 1867 out in Kansas I found a wounded Injun in the bushes and took him home and cared for him till he was able to set out for home. He acted to me like a grateful man, but everybody said he'd even hate me worse for what I'd done. About a year later I was out hunting cattle and was captured by Injuns. They was going to scalp and burn me, but the fellow I had saved turned up and prevented it. He was grateful and wanted to show it."

"And they didn't scalp you?"

"No."

"But how did you lose"——

"I'm coming to that. The feller saved me, but as I was a long ways from home and would likely meet other Injuns they pulled every last blamed hair out by the roots so as not to offer any temptation. They thought I'd better be bald than be dead, and they were right about it."

"But—but"——

"There ain't no buts about it, stranger, or if there is, why,"——

And he reached down into a lank, lean satchel and got hold of the butt end of something, and I took up my book and began reading again. M. QUAD.

Proper Feeding of Baby is an Interesting Subject to the Mother.

Wise Mothers Use Lactated Food.

To the loving mother no subject is more interesting than the proper feeding of her darling baby. She knows that the little one's very life depends upon the character of food that is administered from day to day. Baby's digestive organs are not strong—not fully developed—and require a food that will not irritate or inflame the stomach, and that can be easily assimilated. Science has come to the aid of mothers and given them Lactated Food, which possesses all the nourishing elements that baby-life requires. This scientific food has been specially prepared as a substitute for breast milk when it fails or cannot be given in sufficient quantity. Thousands of mothers have testified strongly in favor of Lactated Food, and the best physicians approve of it and recommend it daily.

Lactated Food makes bright, hearty and happy babies, and brings to every home a peace and joy to mother and father that is unknown in homes where the common foods are used. Lactated Food needs but one trial to make it a family friend.

M. QUAD'S SKETCHES.

A Good Murder Case on Circumstantial Evidence—Old Jack.

[Copyright, 1893, by Charles B. Lewis.]

Yes, circumstantial evidence has put the noose around the necks of innocent men, and circumstantial evidence has sent innocent men to state prison, but nevertheless we must not reject it nor even doubt it on that account. Circumstantial evidence has tripped up thousands of rascals who would otherwise have gone free. It has been the ally of justice and the friend of innocence ever since we had judges, lawyers and jurors, and it will continue to be until the end of time. Where it has condemned an innocent man that man was in a measure to blame for it. He either falsified or withheld certain facts. To a certain extent he aided in his own conviction. When a detective arrests a man for a certain crime, he naturally believes him guilty of it. All his efforts are put forth to working up evidence to convict him in the courts. He rejects anything going to prove his innocence. We berate the detective for doing this, and yet we see the prosecuting attorney pursuing the same line of conduct and make no criticism. The prosecutor must believe the prisoner guilty to do his best. The prisoner's counsel must believe him innocent to do his best. When both sides have pursued this line and the case has been submitted to an intelligent unbiased jury, justice can ask for no more.

The Liverpool Star was a weekly paper published in a town of 2,000 people situated in a coal mining district. At the age of 22 I was foreman of the office—that is, I was compositor, pressman and job printer and had the "bossing" of affairs when the editor happened to be out. As he also had to turn to at the case for two or three days in the week, my authority was limited to giving orders to the apprentice boy. As a young man I stood well in the community. I was sober, industrious and truthful, as a dozen people testified on my behalf at the trial. Three miles east of the village lived a family named Walters. Ida Walters, then a girl of 18, was the belle of the region. I was one out of a dozen young men who fell in love with her, but after a few months the contest narrowed down until only two of us were left. A young man named Albert White, who was employed at a mine near by, was my rival. As a matter of fact, both of us had proposed marriage, but she was a bit of a coquette and would neither accept nor refuse either one of us. No two men can love the same woman without hating each other. It came about that Albert White and I felt murderously jealous of each other. One Sunday night as we walked back to town together we had a violent quarrel and threatened each other's life. When I was told that he carried a knife as a weapon against me, I borrowed a revolver as an offset. The situation finally came to the ears of the editor, and under pledge of secrecy and for my own good he told me certain things about Walters and his wife which instantly cooled my affection for Ida. He had no proofs of what he said, but yet fully believed in what had been told him—that in England, whence they came, the mother had been a notoriously bad woman and the father a blackleg.

I was so fully convinced of the truth of the editor's assertions that I paid no more visits to the girl. After four or five weeks had passed she accepted Albert White, and it was given out that they were engaged. As was to be expected, I was "sympathized" with on every hand, and I want you to note how my demeanor was taken. In every case I turned the matter off with a laugh and congratulated the lucky man. One evening, fully two months after my last visit to the girl, I returned to the office in the evening to do some work. It was mid-winter, and but few people were abroad in the village. At about 9 o'clock Albert White came in. We had not met for many weeks. He came in a friendly spirit, and I received him in the same way. He of course had no suspicion of why I had withdrawn from the race. Believing he had won the girl from me he felt generous and forgiving and called to hope there would be no more hard feelings. Circumstantial evidence is made up of trifles—that is, a full case is. The front door of The Star office sagged a little. When White started to open it to enter, it "stuck" on the sill and sprang back and struck his nose. His nose was bleeding as he came in. I got him a handful of snow from the back door, and in three minutes the bleeding was checked. We sat and talked for about an hour and parted in the most friendly way. At 10:45, as was afterward known, he got a drink of beer in a saloon fully half a mile away, and he then had a basket of groceries on his arm and said he was on his way to his mother's house, where he made his home. The town ordinance required all saloons to close at 10:30 sharp. The owner of this place was defying the ordinance.

Before noon next day it was known all over town that Albert White was missing. Before night men were looking for him, and yet I never heard a word about it. The editor heard of it outside, but said nothing in the office. The apprentice heard of it on the street, but did not mention it to me. I did not get the news until about noon next day. A citizen had remembered seeing White on the steps of The Star office, and so one of the searching parties came to question me. I told of his visit to the office, but did not mention the trifling accident at the door. They asked no question to bring it out. That night I was arrested on a warrant sworn out by his mother as the murderer of Albert White, and the circumstantial evidence piled up against me at the examination. A week later satisfied everybody but the editor that I was guilty of the crime. Mr. and Mrs. Walters swore that White had told them that he feared me, as I had threatened his life. Miss Ida swore to the same thing and added that she had always feared I would shoot him when we met at the house. They found blood on the office floor, and that meant that I had killed White as he sat by the stove. A dozen different people who had guyed me about "getting the mitten" remembered that I had smiled the smile of a cold blooded villain and muttered to myself. The fact that I had carried a pistol was proof that I had murder in my heart.

"This young man—this red handed murderer!" shouted the prosecutor, "had asked the girl in marriage (false) and been refused (false). Fired with jealousy and burning with a desire for revenge (false), he began planning (false) this deed. We know that White feared him (false), and he would not have gone to the office except he was lured there" (false).

The great question, of course, was what had become of the body. It was supposed that I had carried it to some hiding place. Around the town were as many as 50 old coal and iron shafts from 15 to 40 feet deep. Some were covered up and some open. All about us were huge snowdrifts, and the idea was that I had buried White under one of these or flung the body into an open shaft. More than 500 people searched for the body for a week or more, but no trace of it could be found. When I told about the nose bleed, no one believed me. The saloon keeper could have set things right, but he maintained silence, afterward explaining that he feared White had been overcome by drink and perished in the storm. Those who came to the office to question me testified:

"The prisoner hesitated (false) to admit that he had lately seen the missing man. He was very nervous (false), and it was very plain that he knew more than he was willing to tell" (false).

One cannot blame a mother for wishing to see justice meted out to her son's murderer, but Mrs. White was truly vindictive. While she perhaps did not intentionally perjure herself, she swore to many things which had no foundation in fact. For instance, she swore that on three different occasions between 10 and 11 o'clock at night she had seen a person whom she believed to be me loitering about the house in a suspicious manner. She testified that in passing me once on the street I had muttered threats of vengeance; that at another time I had glared at her like a hungry tiger. From the first time she saw me she had sized me up for a desperate villain, she said, and it hardly surprised her when told that I had murdered Albert. As a matter of fact, I did not know the woman by sight.

It might have been a point in my favor to give the true reason for my dropping the girl. I should have had to relate the story told by the editor. He had no proof. I believed it, but no one else would have done so. I was a slim young man, weighing 120 pounds. How had I managed to carry the body of a man weighing 155 pounds clear of the town? They got around that question by saying I had dragged it over the snow, and two wonderful coincidences suddenly bobbed to the surface. Across the alley in rear of the office was a barn. From that barn a halter rope had been missing since that fateful night. The owner of the barn was a volunteer witness, and he seemed to really enjoy the situation. The rope was even then attached to his boy's hand sled, having been taken from the barn for that purpose. Another reputable citizen swore to having seen a curious trail in the alley next morning, as if a bag of oats had been drawn over the snow. No one else saw it, but his testimony was evidence that I had dragged the body out by way of the alley. There were three witnesses who committed deliberate perjury. In a small town a witness in a murder trial is lionized. To secure a share of public admiration three different young men swore to having heard me threaten Albert White's life. They recalled my exact words and the day and hour. When arrested, I was locked up by the town marshal. I didn't think the man wanted to do me a bad turn but because I was arrested he made up his mind I must be guilty. He was the hero of the hour, of course, and of course he had a good deal to say about how I looked and acted and what I said, everything going to prove my guilt. I never believed he realized what he was saying when he took the stand and swore that I said, "Well, it has all come out!" when he locked me up. He added that on two different occasions I seemed about to make a clean breast of it, but he repulsed me.

And now what had become of Albert White? All the searching had failed to get trace of him. After I had been held to the higher court certain incidents occurred to me for the first time. I remembered his having a basket of groceries as he came into the office. I remembered that he said he must go straight home when he left. He lived a full mile beyond the saloon where he had stopped, but could shorten the distance by cutting across a field. I had never crossed this field, but felt sure there were three or four old shafts scattered about. I thought it all over as I lay on my cot in jail one night, and next day the editor of The Star was directing a search. At the bottom of a 30-foot shaft, which was not over 250 feet from Mrs. White's front door, and the mouth of which was almost concealed by a snowdrift, they found Albert. Thus was the seventeenth day after my arrest. He had attempted the short cut in going home. Blinded by the storm, he had fallen into the pit. The five or six feet of snow at the bottom had broken his fall. In his basket was a loaf of bread, two or three pounds of beef, some sugar and a dozen eggs. He had consumed everything and was a very hungry young man when finally discovered. He had figured that the saloon keeper would give notice of his leaving there at 10:45, because both had remarked the time. He reasoned that search would be made and that the old pits would speedily be examined.

I was at once restored to liberty as a matter of course, but I want you to note the curious phase of human nature. Neither the prosecutor nor the town marshal took me by the hand and uttered a word of congratulation. Not one single witness who had testified against me evinced the slightest desire to rejoice. So far as I could judge, at least one-half the population of the town felt a grudge against me for spoiling the case. This feeling also extended to White. After he had been murdered and a good case made out against me it was doggone mean to come to life and spoil all! Strangest of all, the girl went back on him with the crowd and was shortly after married to a chap who had never taken the trouble to run after her.

Circumstantial evidence is good and just and legal evidence, I repeat, but it must be truthful evidence and without bias, or the defendant may be terribly wronged.

OLD JACK.

All men like a horse, but only a cavalryman takes a horse into full partnership or gives him that admiration which heroes deserve. Our love for Old Jack began at Gettysburg when we saw the captain who rode him cut off from the command and called upon to surrender. He shouted his defiance, gave Old Jack the spur, and that horse brought him over seven fences and walls and a great ditch back to his company. A bullet had raked the gallant steed, and the men cheered him as they wiped the blood away with their handkerchiefs. Late that fall, after a slashing cavalry fight on a Virginia meadow one afternoon, we found Old Jack standing over the dead body of his master. Other horses were galloping wildly about, but he showed no excitement. Wounded horses approached him to beg for sympathy, but he drove them away for fear they would injure the man at his feet.

Old Jack was with us up and down the Shenandoah valley, and one night when a terrific storm stampeded 300 of our horses over to the enemy he alone returned. He raided and fought throughout that memorable year of 1864 and was wounded twice again. He was ready for the last campaign, and when the surrender came the white flags almost brushed his nose. Only the day before that a piece of shell had given him a severe wound, but when driven to the rear with hundreds of others he literally fought his way back. A quartermaster at Washington got hold of him when we returned from Appomattox, but when we knew that our brigade was to go west we got Old Jack back on the active list again, and he was one of us. At Leavenworth, when they weeded out the horses preparatory to the long jaunt to the Colorado line, they led Old Jack away to brand him with a "C" and sell him to the highest bidder at auction. Company A resolved and petitioned and argued, and our second lieutenant bought him before the degrading branding iron had touched his shoulder. We gave him a reception when he returned after his brief absence—the sort of welcome an old comrade could have counted on.

Up the Platte, as we got into the Indian country, a dozen men were cut off from the command one day. It was a race for life. The horse of a trooper fell with a broken leg, and the lieutenant took the man up behind him. Old Jack came in bearing double, and an Indian arrow had grazed his quarter while making the last half mile. Farther west it was Old Jack who suddenly raised an alarm one midnight just in time to save us from attack. A week later he was bitten by a rattlesnake. The order was to shoot him, as it had been in the case of a score of other horses, but we would not have it so. Providence sent a rainstorm to stop the march, and we poured whisky enough down Old Jack's neck to make 10 men drunk. After three or four days he was kicking up his heels as of yore, and every man in the brigade wanted a look at him.

One day, between the forks of the Upper Platte, Old Jack's rider ventured too far from camp and was "rushed" by half a dozen Indians. He dismounted and menaced them over the saddle with his revolver. The horse stood like a rock. They yelled and shrieked and waved blankets and fired their rifles, but they could not stampede him. In the midst of the excitement he saw the relief party while yet a mile away and neighed a shrill recognition and a warning to ride fast. When I tell you all these things, you will not wonder at our kindly feeling toward our horse comrade. There were just 55 men of us in Company A out on the plains. Had we some day been obliged to accept 55 hardtacks for a full day's rations no man would have begrudged Old Jack a generous nibble.

I remember when the sad day came as if it were only last week. Two hundred of us were pushing a fresh Indian trail, and the hour was noon, when Old Jack, going at a gallop, put his foot into a gopher hole and broke a foreleg. Two hundred men groaned out at sight of the poor beast standing on three legs after recovering from the fall. We realized that his last hour had come. To leave him alive behind us would be inhuman. There was neither water nor grass for miles around. The wolves would pull him down after a few hours, and he deserved a nobler death. And yet who could have the heart to kill him?

"Strip off the saddle and shoot him!"

That was the order that came back from the head of the column, and that was the order given by our captain to a sergeant. The saddle was removed. Old Jack must have been in terrible pain, but he did not utter a sigh. His eyes opened wider than usual, and he seemed worried and anxious as he looked around.

"Captain, I can't do it! It would be as bad as shooting down a comrade!"

So said the sergeant as he stood revolver in hand. A second and a third were named, but they hung back. A corporal stepped out, placed the muzzle of his revolver to Old Jack's ear, but a hundred men shouted in chorus, and he did not pull trigger.

"Compliments of Colonel Blank, with orders to shoot that horse at once!" announced a messenger from the head of the column.

"Sergeant Davis, put the poor beast out of his misery!" ordered the captain.

"I've got to do it or stand a court martial," growled the sergeant, "but I'd sooner try a shot at somebody down in front! Perhaps he isn't so badly hurt."

"Hurry up! Can't you see the bone is broken square off?"

"It's the same thing as murder, and the Lord will never forgive me for it! Boys, bear me witness that I'm forced to do it!"

Poor Old Jack! He was rubbing his nose against the sergeant's left hand and whimpering as if he would inquire what it was all about. Our faces were all turned the other way. Many of the men stopped their ears to shut out the report of the revolver, and no one looked back as the column moved on. Looking straight ahead and with a suspicious quivering of the chin the sergeant whispered:

"I wish I hadn't done it! I wish I had taken arrest and court martial instead! Poor old comrade!"

BILL NYE IN B. C.

Why the Theatre Manager Rejoiced it Rained in Victoria on Good Friday.

Nye Discovers the Reason Why the English Younger Son Wears Leggings.

[Copyright, 1893, by Edgar W. Nye.]

Rats gave me some trouble last evening and during the night. They had their hook and ladder company out, I think, for exercise, for in the wall of my room they were practising on running up as far as possible and then falling to the bottom with a dull report like that when a fat aeronaut falls 1,000 feet and strikes on the top of a man with a high hat.

After I had gone to sleep, tired nature being no longer able to hold out against noise, they got more intimate, and I woke up to find a confidential old chap pouring his cold, sad tail in my ear.

I have never been the confidant of a dumb animal that way before.

I ENTERED MY DRESSING ROOM WEEPING SOFTLY.

British Columbia in summer must be a most beautiful country. The ride from Victoria to Nanaimo by train is one that seems like a beautiful dream. The smooth water of the strait is on your right, and on the left the magnificent forest with solemn mossy firs that grow to a great size, and every few moments you cross a musical trout brook with a milky waterfall that echoes far and away through the answering woods. There's nothing so peaceful unless it be the death of a good man. I could fish there forever. Some do. You can get trout there too.

The conductor stepped down to a babbling brook while we loaded five trunks and borrowed a willow rod with a line to it fixed up with a boy at one end and a worm at the other and whipped out two rainbow trout before one could say scat.

We showed in Victoria on Good Friday, as the date had been made months ago and without due forethought. Good Friday in an English city, and a pouring rain gave us an apprehensive pain as we strolled into the opera house at the stage entrance. The steamer ride all day had been dreary, wet and cold, and at 8 o'clock I entered my dressing room weeping softly as my valet laid out my handsome costumes for the evening.

The opera house manager came back to see me. I dried my eyes as well as possible, dashing some powder on my discolored nose, and expecting to hear him say, "You come to us at a very unfortunate time, but some of our best people are here to-night," etc., but he rubbed his hands cheerily and said, "We will do well to get room for them to-night, and I'd hate to turn them away in the rain."

"But how about Good Friday?"

"Oh, that is all right. I was only afraid it would be a pleasant day. Then all of Victoria would have been fishing all the daylight there was and been too tired to come, but now they are all rested and on hand."

Business men of Victoria are not slaves to their work. They get down to their business at 10 o'clock, and if anyone is waiting to see them they make an engagement for 3 o'clock. The house is closed at lunchtime also. Good Friday was a holiday. Saturday is a regular holiday. Sunday is the same, of course, for tired merchants then go fishing. Monday was a holiday also, being Easter Monday, and on Tuesday many were so worn out with fishing that it was also observed as a holiday.

We could not get into a bank by any honorable means, and so when we got to America we had a trunkful of Canadian money. Had we been a few days later we would have had 20 per cent. discount to pay, as this is the rule since April 15.

It is a retaliatory measure. The Canadians say that we started it, and the Yankees say the Canadians started it. I do not know who started it, but I can put my hand on my heart and say of a truth that I had nothing to do with it.

All the time while there I tried to think of something to smuggle, but I could not.

By going on board a Chinese steamship we succeeded in buying some embroidered handkerchiefs, and by being extremely foxy and free with our shillings we got them off the steamer—the handkerchiefs, I mean—and across the line. My heart was in my mouth all the time. I sent them since to my wife, who says that they are very curious, but can be bought cheaper at Ashville, N. C.

At Nanaimo coal mining and football are indulged in. Coal mining is the only thing that is not affected by the rainy season. A man on the Sound also told us that for two years he did not see Mount Hood, Mount Ranier, Mount Tacoma or Mount Baker for the rain. Mount Tacoma and Mount Ranier are the same, but called by different names according to whether you live at Tacoma or Seattle. I have referred to this before.

Each large city aims to be the terminus of some great transcontinental road. In some countries people are divided into Episcopalians, Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians, but here one must at once become a follower of Jim Hall, the N. P., the C. P. or the U. P.

I was about to say that P's hath her victory no less than war, but the customs officer told me I had no right to bring such a thing as that into this country free unless I wanted it for my own personal use.

At Nanaimo we took the little steamer Cutch to Vancouver. In crossing the wharf at Nanaimo I sat my bag down on the dock in order to peel my umbrella and hit a rainin. A young man with a haggard look took it up and held it for me. He continued to hold it till I paid him wharfage on it.

It is a private wharf and is all the poor man has to keep him in liquor. If you send your trunks down to the steamer, he holds them until you ransom them.

An old resident told me that once this man stopped a funeral procession because the bearers put down the remains on the dock to spit on their hands, and they had to pay a dollar before the procession could move This keeps the respectable people with baggage from going to Nanaimo, and especially as they wish in case of death to be buried elsewhere. Even the Chinaman does not want his body to be found dead at this place and has it sent back to China.

The steamship Empress of India sailed from Vancouver while we were there and carried quite a large cargo of Chinamen who had died at Nanaimo, paid dockage and started for home.

In my last letter I spoke a little disrespectfully of the young English tourist who runs so much to leggings and so little to legs, wearing leggings even to get married in, but now I find that I was hasty.

He, of course, being a younger son who inherited the old family pants, finds that they wrinkle and become finally abraded and fluted at the bottoms, so he puts on leggings. After he has worn them awhile the trousers or pants naturally, as a result of the warmth of the person and having been tightly folded for some time, especially if slept in, become hopelessly wrinkled, so that leggings become a necessity, and at last one legging seems call for another, like the drink habit.

One man I saw had two pairs on at the same time.

But now that I know the cause, and that it is actual want which lies at the bottom of all this, I regret very much the hasty manner in which I spoke. Under those wrinkled and passe trousers may throb a warm, true English heart.

Quien sabe?

We liked Victoria and Vancouver, though the latter is the coming city of that country. The buildings are excellent, the hotel first-class, though crowded on steamer days, and one of the fines opera houses on the coast is there, ably managed by Mr. Goldsmith, a Jewish gentleman who was born in Australia. He says that he was characterized as a Sheeny Kangaroo in his early life, "but now," said he, "I call myself a Siwash Chinaman."

At the opera house I was called upon to show my ready wit and explain it afterward to several people who remained after the opera was over.

Part of a football team came after all other seats were occupied and were given the chairs usually occupied by the orchestra Several of them came in a beastly state of intoxication and one in a long white nightshirt. This joke comes from William the Conqueror, but the lick just behind the ear which this young man got came from Mr. Goldsmith, who was at the door at the time.

So the man with the nightshirt was pulled out of the mud at the door and sent home on a wide board.

A YOUNG MAN HELD MY BAG.

The others came in and made remarks during our overture, thus annoying the audience and cutting into our remarks. It was so de trop that I saw we must execute a coup d'etat or receive a faux pas.

We are often asked to call for a physician in the audience, who is sent for by messenger to the stage, so I paused in the olio and with great gravity and earnestness advanced to the footlights and asked with a trembling voice if Dr. Keeley would kindly come to the front.

The audience couldn't have been more than seven or eight minutes at work on it before it was settled that it was intended as a bonmot. Then they turned loose with lung and boot heel and umbrella ferrule till the football team began to ask itself, "How is it possible that this vast audience and even the speaker, a total stranger, has discovered that we are drunk?"

Then those who needed it went home and tied their heads up in wet towels, and the others most generously apologized.

This incident will be published in Punch under the heading, "The Following Good One," etc.

I am very fond of repartee indeed and in Wyoming once gave such full vent to it in chaffing a stage driver on the old Douglass creek stage line that I shall bear the marks of it to the grave. BILL NYE.

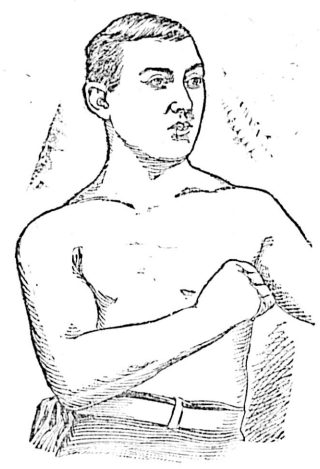

WHAT CAN BE DONE ?

When the system is overloaded with impurity, the circulation sluggish, and the stomach out of order, as is often the case in spring time, there is no remedy so efficacious as Burdock Blood Bitters to remove every trace of impure matter and restore perfect health.

ABBOTT AFTER M'AULIFFE.

The Englishman Anxious to Defeat the Lightweight Champion.

Stanton Abbott, a new aspirant for the lightweight championship of the world, is now in America. He is one of England's best lightweights and declares that the height of his ambition is to meet Jack McAuliffe in the roped arena and wrest from him his long held laurels as lightweight champion of the world. As McAuliffe is always willing to defend his title and as Austin Gibbons, Andy Bowen, Jack Burke of Texas and Billy Myer are all anxious to meet Abbott, he will without doubt soon have an opportunity to show what he can do before an American audience. Abbott claims to be the lightweight champion of England, and a match between Abbott and World's Champion McAuliffe will be a most interesting international battle.

STANTON ABBOTT.

This is the second English pugilist who claims to be the lightweight champion of England, and who has come to this country inside of a year. Dick Burge was the first, and his mission here was to meet Jack McAuliffe. Abbott thinks that he will be more successful than Burge, for he can get down to McAuliffe's weight (135 pounds) very easily.

Abbott has the appearance of being more of a 122-pound man than a lightweight. He is a well built fellow, with a dark complexion. He is described as being a hard hitter, a good general and a clever boxer. He thinks that McAuliffe will give him a chance to meet him and is very confident that the various fighting clubs will offer a suitable purse for his services.

Champion Oarsman Ryan.

The oarsmen are already getting into training for the aquatic events of what promises to be the most important season scullers have seen for many years. An amateur who will probably attract as much attention the coming season as he did last is John J. Ryan, the champion oarsman of America. Early in May he will leave for England to prepare himself for the Henley regatta, which always calls out the crack amateurs of Great Britain. Ryan was born in Toronto 30 years ago and has been an oarsman ever since he could swing an oar. In 1882 Ryan first [illegible] attention by winning with Edward [illegible] the amateur senior double sculling championships of Canada. Other notable victories followed in 1885, 1886 and 1887, and at Chautauqua in 1887 Ryan finished second to Corbett for the championship. In 1888 Ryan retorted by defeating Corbett at Toronto, but not in a race for the championship of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. This championship Ryan won for the first time at Saratoga last August, and he still holds the title. The N. A. A. O. regatta will be held this year at Detroit Aug. 9 and 10.

JOHN J. RYAN.

Ryan is an athletic looking young man, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighing 150 pounds. He is confident of winning against the British experts, and his work abroad will be watched with interest by oarsmen on this side.

Athletic Intercollegiate Association.

The Western Intercollegiate Athletic association has decided to meet at Champaign, Ills., under the auspices of the University of Illinois Athletic association on Friday, May 12. The association consists of the following colleges and universities: Lake Forest, Northwestern of Evanston, Ills.; Purdue of Lafayette, Ind.; Rose Polytechnic of Terre Haute, Ind.; College of Christian Brothers, St. Louis; Grinnell college, Grinnell, Ia.; Iowa State university, Iowa City; Illinois college, Jacksonville, and the University of Illinois. From an athletic point of view the meet last year was very successful, and as already great interest is being manifested in the forthcoming meeting even the success of last year will be surpassed.

Official Referee Bunnell.

The official referee of the National Cycling Association of America is O. S. Bunnell, whose position will be the most important in the new wheeling organization. The association, which was organized a short time ago, will hold meets in nearly all the principal cities of the United States during the coming season and award cash prizes to professional bicyclists. The organization promises to be one of the most formidable rivals the League of American Wheelmen has ever had, and yet rival is hardly the proper descriptive term, for the reason that each organization occupies an entirely different field, as one is for professionals only, while amateurs alone may contest in the races of the other.

O. S. BUNNELL.

Mr. Bunnell is a Philadelphian and a man well known in cycling circles. He has been prominent in Pennsylvania L. A. W. work, and the office of referee is by no means a new one to him. He will preside at the meets of the National Cycling association, and his decision in disputed matters will be law. Mr. Bunnell will sever his numerous relations with the L. A. W. and devote his entire time to this new office, which pays a salary of $3,000 per year and expenses.

KASLO

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Growth of KASLO this year has been unprecedented in the history of British Columbia.

In one year the Forest Growth has been replaced by streets lined with substantial buildings.

The population has increased in one year from 300 to 3,000, and is being added to at the rate of nearly 100 per day.

The immediate construction of the KASLO - SLOCAN RAILROAD will cause development that will increase the population this year to twice 3,000.

It is the supply point and outlet for the now famous mines of the Slocan, ore from which has been shipped via Kaslo all winter.

Ship Owners' Combine.

It is said that the Ship Owners' Association of the Pacific Coast is making preparations for a vigorous warfare against the Sailors' Union on Puget Sound. The Association will, under the directorship of Secretary Williams, of San Francisco, have branch offices on Puget Sound, wherein non-union sailors can ship on their vessels. The advance money paid to sailors will be given directly into each individual's hands. Sailors will be carefully guarded against attack by union men, and it is claimed that all the big mill companies on the coast belong to the Association and will assist it.

Trades and Labor Council.

At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council held on Friday night, delegates from the Cigarmakers' Union presented their credentials, and were admitted. It was decided to assist Vancouver and Nanaimo Councils in organizing a Trades and Labor Congress. A communication from the Pacific Coast Trade and Labor Federation, asking the local council to federate, was laid upon the table. The only other business of importance was the appointment of a committee to wait upon Messrs. Earle and Prior, M. P., in reference to the carrying on of work on Government contracts.

Vancouver Y. M. C. A.

The Lieutenant - Governor and Mrs. Dewdney have accepted an invitation to be present at the grand inaugural ceremonies in connection with the new hall of the Y.M.C.A. at Vancouver, and His Honor is announced, not only to attend, but to preside over the events of the celebration, which will last two days. The dedicatory services on the first day will be followed by a grand citizen's reception to the Lieutenant-Governor as her Majesty's representative. On the second day, after an elaborate lunch, a kermesse, under the patronage of Mrs. Dewdney, will be formally opened. A committee of ladies have taken charge of the proceedings, and they are doing a great deal to secure public support for the splendid new building.

A Pitiable and Painful Accident.

Emma Hemenover, the little eleven-year old niece of Miss J. Harris, dressmaker in the Five Sisters' block, received a nasty fall in that building last evening, but just exactly how she did is not known. It is supposed she fell over a bannister on the third floor to the second flat. No one witnessed the accident, but a member of the B. C. Marine Engineers' Association, which had been in session on the third flat, concluded that something was wrong on hearing the sound of a fall, and immediately began searching. He soon located the cause of alarm, the little girl lying directly under the bannister. Medical assistance was at once summoned and the child was taken in the Dupont ambulance to the Jubilee hospital, where it was discovered she had broken her leg and had severely fractured her jaw. A telegram was forwarded to the little one's parents in Kamloops informing them of the sad news.

SPANISH POLITICS.

A Snap Vote Taken by the Government After a Prolonged Intermittent Session—Public Indignation.

MADRID, May 13.—The counter motion of the Republicans in the Cortes against leaving the government a free hand in the matter of the municipal elections, was rejected shortly after 8 o'clock last night by a vote of 126 to 21. The Republican deputies after between fifty and sixty hours of a sitting, retired for a minute to confer, leaving but two men to watch the Government. Almost immediately after their departure the men on watch summoned them back in all haste. It was too late, however, the original bill postponing the election had already been rushed through the house by the ministers. The Republican members at once withdrew from the building. As they appeared in a body in the street they were cheered repeatedly by the thickening crowd. The news spread like fire, and before the deputies reached the Republican club, thousands were marching behind them shouting, "Long live the republic!" The club was filled with representative Republicans, who at once gathered in conference to decide upon the future line of action. Meantime some 10,000 men and women had assembled some 200 yards from the parliamentary building, and were cheering for the republic.

The police ordered them to disperse. They refused to do so. The officers then charged and were repulsed. Three companies of reinforcements were summoned. All charged with drawn sabres, divided the mob and scattered the groups in the side streets. At 9:15, when the Cortes adjourned, most of the people had been driven off and the Ministers were in no danger of being molested. The Republican deputies are said to contemplate resigning in a body from the Cortes. The Government is taking all precautions to protect the public buildings. The court yard of the Home office is filled with mounted police. The other offices have been similarly garrisoned.

SEALING RESTRICTIONS.

The British and Russian Governments Have Arrived at a Positive Agreement.

Official Notice Sent to Collector A. R. Milne to Warn Canadian Schooners.

Last March the announcement was officially made that there was under consideration by Her Majesty's Government an agreement with Russia with respect to sealing off the Russian coast and islands, and it was then plainly intimated that it would be desirable for schooners from Canadian waters to keep outside a limit fixed at ten miles off the coast and thirty off the islands. At that time the sealing schooners were according advised of the proposed arrangement, so that if there should be trouble in the proposed limit, they would have to bear the brunt of it themselves. Since then nothing was heard of the conclusion of the agreement until Friday, when a telegram to Collector of Customs A. R. Milne at this port from the deputy minister of Trade and Commerce for the Dominion, gave an intimation that an important advice on the subject was to be expected, requesting him at the same time to give the matter his immediate attention.

The formal advice came by wire yesterday morning, and is as follows:

OTTAWA, May 13, 1893.

To. A. R. Milne, Collector of Customs, Victoria:

Referring to my telegram of March 10 and Mr. Parmelee's of March 17, I have now to advise that English and Russian Governments have agreed to prohibit sealing vessels from fishing within ten miles of Russian coast and within thirty miles of Robbin island and the Commander islands during the present year. Warn sealers to observe this prohibition, communicating with those who have already sailed whenever possible. Give copy of this to officer commanding Her Majesty's ships at Esquimalt.

Signed) WILLIAM SMITH,
Deputy Minister Marine.

On receipt of the above telegram, Collector Milne at once took steps to give the notice publicity and has officially notified H. M. Navy of it by forwarding a copy to Capt. Hughes-Hallet, of H. M. S. Garnet, senior naval officer at this station. As one of the British warships will shortly leave to patrol Behring Sea, it is altogether probable that most of the schooners now up the coast will receive the notice in due cburse. Collector Milne has also written letters to H. M. consuls at Yokohama and Hakodate, Japan, enclosing copies of the telegram for their information. These letters will leave on Monday, May 15, by the Empress of China, and will thus have speedy delivery. By the same steamer letters will also be forwarded to the schooners now in Japanese waters, so that they too will have due notice of the conclusion of the agreement of which they have already understood the purport.

There is a good deal of speculation among the sealing men as to the object of the convention which has thus thus been made between Great Britain and Russia. Attention is drawn to the fact that it, on its face, looks as if it were an indication of a determination to prevent the destruction of seals, more especially as it would seem that the Russians are also, under the treaty, to be prohibited from sealing in the proscribed waters, although it does not throw any light on the question of the rights of a privileged Russian company to take seals on the island. This further information will probably be available when the mail advices are received from England giving a more definte statement as to the scope of the convention.

The above game, played on the ground of the former club yesterday afternoon, resulted in victory for Mr. Mytton's eleven, thanks to the batting of Irving, who carried his bat through the innings, and to the bowling of B. Goward, who took six wickets for 11 runs, and T. H. Paterson, three wickets for 17. These two bowled unchanged through the Albion innings. C. Schwengers took three wickets for 0 runs for his side. PREPARING FOR VICTORIA'S REGATTA.

VANCOUVER, May 13. — (Special)—The Burrard Inlet rowing club have postponed their regatta for two weeks so that it will not interfere with the Vancouver rowing club regatta. Both clubs are practising hard for Victoria's regatta.

CANOEING.

A CLUB CRUISE.

The Victoria canoe club had a cruise yesterday afternoon, which, thanks to the beautiful weather, proved a very pleasant experience. Fifteen canoes started from the club house, bearing the members and their lady friends, and proceeded up the Arm to its head. Thence the canoes were carried across to Esquimalt harbor, and the return was made by the outer passage. The cruise was under the direction of Commodore Rogers, and terminated without mishap. Next Saturday there will be a practice for the Queen's Birthday contests.

THE WHEEL.

INCREASING IN POPULARITY.

The road runs of the Wanderers are each week becoming more popular, and yesterday's was the best yet. There were twelve wheels in line, and the route was to Cadboro Bay, where a halt was called, and thence home via Mount Tolmie and the Cedar Hill road. The race track at Tolmie is outlined, but the work is not proceeding as rapidly as the wheelsmen would desire. Capt. Begg was in command of yesterday's run, and made the pace to suit the lambs. On the homeward journey, a second halt was called for kalsomining purposes, an excellent quality of whitewash being obtained at a hospitable farm house. The lubricant went down as easily as a pneumatic tire on a smooth down grade. The next run will be to Foul Bay on Tuesday evening. A good attendance is especially desired, as the club will continue the drill in preparation for the 24th.

THE LIST OF PRIZES.

The Wanderers C. C. have adopted the following list of prizes for the celebration, subject to the approval of the Finance committee:

Half mile (novice)—1, cyclometer, presented by T. W. Edwards & Co.; 2, bronze statuettes.

Five miles—1, silver shaving set in silver case, presented by C. E. Redfern; 2, oak clock; 3, silver flask.

One mile—1, silver trophy, presented by H. Kent; 2, pair of souvenir trays.

Two miles—The Times challenge medal, now held by Mr. Fred. G. Turner, of Westminster.

Quarter mile dash—1, Challoner & Mitchell's trophy; 2, pair cycle shoes.

Miss Lettie Huntley

Is the sister of Mr. W. S. Huntley of Cortland, N. Y., a well known carpenter and builder. Her frank statement below gives only the absolute truth concerning her illness and marvelous recovery by the aid of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She says:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sir: Twelve years ago I began to have hemorrhages and four years ago became so low that the physicians told me

There Was No Hope

and I should soon die. I could not be moved from my bed. Under my face were napkins continually reddened with blood from my mouth. I could eat nothing and had no action of the bowels for a week. The doctors said the cause was ulcers in the stomach. At this time my mother said she wanted to make one more trial, and asked if I would take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I told her it would be

but finding it would comfort her, I began taking it. In a few days the bloating began to subside, I seemed to feel a little stronger, but thought it only fancy. I was so weak I could only take ten drops of Sarsaparilla at first. In two weeks I was able to sit up a few minutes every day. In a month I could walk across the room. One day I asked what they were to have for dinner, and said I wanted something hearty. My mother was so happy she cried. It was the

First Time I had Felt Hungry for Two Years

I kept on with Hood's Sarsaparilla and in six months was as well as ever in my life. It is now four years since I recovered, and I have not had a day's sickness since, nor any hemorrhage. If ever a human being thanked the good Lord on bended knees it was I. I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla, and that alone, unquestionably Saved my Life."

Messrs. Sager & Jennings, the well known druggists of Cortland, say that Miss Huntley "is a highly respected lady; her statement of what

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has done for her is worthy the highest confidence." Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills.

PLATFORM AND STAGE.

Champion Corbett the Attraction of the Week. The Story of "Gentleman Jack."

"Our Boys" to Be Repeated on the 25th Instant—"Vesper Bells" Cancelled.

Next Thursday evening at the Victoria Theatre, Champion James J. Corbett will assume the roles of college student, bank clerk, professor of boxing and champion pugilist in Charles T. Vincent's play of "Gentleman Jack." All of these roles, this somewhat remarkable young man has played in real life; as dramatist, Vincent took memorable incidents in Corbett's life and wove them into the play. Corbett was known as a college student while acquiring his education at the college of the Sacred Heart in San Francisco; he was known as a bank clerk while filling this responsible position as paying teller of the Nevada Bank of San Francisco. He was afterwards professor of boxing at the well-known Olympic Athletic club of San Francisco, and on the 27th day of September was proclaimed the champion heavy-weight pugilist of the world at New Orleans.

This brief but interesting autobiography is, perhaps, rather too misleading to those who have not see him, or do not know him personally. Legends of ancient gladiators have cast somewhat of a foregone conclusion that a man capable of gaining the position in the arena that Corbett has, must naturally be a phenomenon of strength, muscular development and brutal obtrusiveness, with little regard for public opinion or personal respectability. The first two characteristics Corbett is the possessor of, but the others are unknown qualities in his composition. He is, in this respect, much the opposite of what timid femininity would expect of a man capable of conquering a towering giant, who for ten long years knew no master. His college education and refined associations endowed him with many acquirements that fitted him well when he determined, some three years ago, to choose the stage as a profession. While in the employ of the Nevada Bank he often appeared in amateur theatrical performances, in which he made a reasonable success of the parts assigned him for interpretation.

The Olympic Athletic club, of San Francisco, as is known, is composed of a wealthy and fashionable set of the city by the Golden Gate. While Corbett was instructor of the club it was the custom to hold weekly receptions at the club rooms for the wives, daughters and sweethearts of the male members. These receptions partook of a social character, and it was at one of them that Corbett first met his present wife, who was then known to San Francisco society as Miss Olive Lake, and now a member of his company.

Manager W. A. Brady saw Corbett in an amateur performance, and realizing that he was an intelligent fellow, with a handsome face and a pleasing stage presence, offered him an engagement with one of his numerous theatrical companies, which was accepted. Corbett's entire life reads almost like a romance. From the counting-room to a champion pugilist seems almost incredible, but these are matters of record well known. The several scenes in the play of "Gentleman Jack" present a view of the campus at Payne College, the Madison Square roof garden, Corbett's training quarters at Asbury park, and the historical ring side of the Olympic club at New Orleans. Assurance is given that all these scenes were especially painted from photographs taken on the spot.

An unusually large attendance of ladies is expected at the performance, as has been the experience in other cities. A careful selection was made by Manager Brady in securing the present company, the individual members of which were culled from such admirable organizations as A. M. Palmer, Augustin Daly and Daniel Frohman's stock companies.

THE PREMIER'S SPEECH.

The following is the concluding portion of the leader of the Government's Westminster speech, taken from the Vancouver World's excellent report.

Now we are told that "whilst protesting its inability to meet the demands of all sections of the Province for larger expenditures on works of development," the Government has taken power to borrow $600,000 to meet the first estimate of the cost of public buildings. This exaggerated way of putting it infers that there are large sums to be expended afterwards. I can only repeat the assurance that there is no such intention. The contract has to be given for the work and we do not expect the country to justify the expenditure of any sum exceeding $600,000. Public buildings were required and had to be erected somewhere, and if erected at Chilliwack, or Vancouver, I suppose we would not have heard very much complaint. If you go into the old buildings now you will find that the roof of the Legislative Assembly hall is leaking. I was in there the other day, after a rainstorm, and there was a pool of water back of the Speaker's chair from the roof. In the Attorney-General's office the roof leaks in several places. How could these structures be otherwise, erected, as they were, some thirty years ago, and built of wood with a brick veneer. It has been said we might go along for years without putting up new buildings. "We do not want to interfere with the Capital in any way." I know that there is no question about moving the Capital. I do not think there would ever be any agreement as to where to bring it, if changed. But it is said you could get on with these buildings for a long time. Well, of course, we could make patch work of them and spend large sums of money every year in making repairs. From $5,000 to $10 a year could be expended for that purpose for years to come. A few years ago the repairs and additions amounted to $20,000, and $30,000 would be within the mark of what has been spent there during the last four years. At the present time there has to be a carpenter employed on these buildings constantly. No one found fault with the $75,000 expended last year for the erection of a fire-proof land registry office. Then it has been said that it would be far better to spend this money in opening up roads, streets and bridges. Even if the Government could build roads and take a road to every settler's door, how much dissatisfaction would be caused by those who would not get the roads just where they wanted them? (Applause.) Spend that $600,000 how you like, you would have just as many dissatisfied persons as you would have satisfied ones. You would have complaints from Cariboo to Comox of favoritism by the Government. Let us consider what this really means, this expenditure: It has been put to you as if it meant $600,000 thrown down in a lump sum and taken from a depleted treasury. That amount means exactly the yearly sum for sinking fund to pay off the loan and the interest. What does that amount to? I got the auditor to make me a computation of what the sinking fund and interest would amount to. As you are aware, the financial condition of the Province is excellent. The credit of the Province stands nearly equal to any other colony in the world. (Cheers.) British Columbia's 3 per cents are now quoted at 93 to 93½. Now, at 93 the interest would be £3 4s. 6d. per cent. In order to realize a sum equal to $600,000 bonds sold at 93, it would require an issue of about £133,333, and the annual interest thereon would be £3,999, or $19,384. The cost to the Province on the above basis would be annually: interest, $19,384; sinking fund, $6,000; total, $25,384; and at the end of fifty years it would be paid off. These are not my computations; they were made by the Provincial auditor. Now, I would like to know, if $25,000 is going to be expended for this purpose every year, how much that sum distributed over the whole Province is going to shorten the funds available in building roads and making permanent improvements. When you take the $5,000 for repairs into account, you still have it to reduce the $25,000 with. Say the yearly expenditure is from $300,000 to $500,000 upon roads, streets, bridges and public improvements, I say what figure does the sum of $20,000 cut in respect of this expenditure? It is not worth mentioning. Victoria and district, in common with the rest of the country, are entitled to their share in the distribution of public moneys, and, in apportioning that, this expenditure will of course be taken into consideration. The same may be said in regard to the trafalgar bridge across the Fraser. So that there is no more injustice in appropriating $20,000 for the purpose of sinking fund and interest upon the $600,000 for the buildings than in appropriating $15,000 for seven years for the bridge across the Fraser. You will say this is only temporary. That may be, but the member for the district, when the time comes, will, I expect, present a strong case for an increased grant.

It was said that the Mainland was unjustly dealt with in the matter of public appropriations. I deny that, and shall prove to you that in the matter of appropriations for public works the Mainland has had its full quota of justice. When the delegation came to Victoria in 1890 it was not denied that this was the case. The delegates admitted that this district had been fairly dealt with at that time. Let us look over what has been expended during the last three years on the Mainland and on the Island. You will find that for public purposes, everything outside of the civil government salaries, and the cost of maintaining the Government, there has been spent on Vancouver Island in 1890, $173,840; in 1891, $163,263; and in 1892, $208,088, or a total of $545,191. On the Mainland what do we find? In 1890 there was spent $337,293; in 1891, $335,462; in 1892, $433,362, a total of $1,106,117, or more than double what was spent on Vancouver Island. (A voice—show the revenue.) Yes, I shall proceed to do so. During that time the revenue derived from the Island, inclusive of land sales, was $585,542 01, leaving a balance over and above expenditure of $40,401,01, to go into the general purposes of the Government. Upon the Mainland the total amount of the revenue was very much larger, it was $1,249,060 19. (Cheers.) Take from that the amount actually expended on the Mainland and you have a balance of $142,943 19 returned to the treasury for the purposes of the general government of the country, so that on the Island you have $40,401.01 returned to the treasury of the revenue of the country, over and above the appropriations, and on the Mainland, $142,943 19 to the treasury of the revenue of the country. Do these figures show any injustice as regards the Mainland? And a further consideration of the facts will show still further how justly and fairly this portion of the Province has been dealt with. If you take the Shuswap & Okanagan Railway, it first got a lump sum of $200,000, which was afterwards changed to a guarantee of interest equal to $50,000 for twenty-five years. A similar guarantee was passed last session in aid of the Spence's Bridge & Nicola Valley Railway, and a guarantee of interest on $800,000 or thereabouts on the Nakusp & Slocan Railway—a line calculated to open up and aid in developing the mining resources of Kootenay. To come nearer home, there was a guarantee passed of 2 per cent. upon the bonds of the Chilliwack railroad to the extent of $500,000. (Cheers.) It is true that the guarantees have been so arranged that the public revenue is not likely to be seriously encroached upon; but still the fact remains that the credit of the country has been pledged for these works. As against these railways, what do you find on Vancouver Island? The Victoria & Sidney Railway is the only one, and there the Government takes an obligation of $6,000, and the city of Victoria of $9,000. Besides the appropriations and aids to railways, there was aid to quartz mining in Cariboo of $74,509, and you have a small expenditure for a woolen mill in this place of $3,000, and $37,500 towards a bonus for the C.P.R. coming into New Westminster; and you have $15,000 a year in aid of the bridge across the Fraser, which it would have been difficult, if not impossible, for the city itself to raise. Take a glance over these facts—facts that cannot be challenged—and ask yourselves if the Government of the country is treating you so badly? (A voice, no, no). Matters do not stop here. In the first place the revenue from the Mainland is only $1,249,000. In this I have included the land sales, and the same upon Vancouver Island, and have shown that you have had the revenue raised upon the Mainland expended here in public works, education, surveys, and so on, all of it, sir, with the exception of about $149,000, and the same thing is true of the Island, which has had similarly expended the revenue collected there within $40,000. Now the proceeds of the sale of the land of the Province do not belong to any particular portion of it, and any land sales are entitled to be distributed for the benefit of the people generally. The Mainland had no particular claim to the land revenue being expended here. What did the land sales amount to during those three years? They amounted to $491,310 upon the Mainland. Take that from $1,249,000 gross revenue, and what have you got as the net revenue? You have $757,749 39. That puts the matter in another shape altogether. You have then the revenue considerably less than the expenditure, the expenditure being $1,106,117, with a revenue of $757,749, leaving $348,367 of a deficit. On Vancouver Island the revenue was $585,572 01, the land sales being $149,659.82. Deduct then the land sales, and take the revenue from the expenditure, and you have an excess of expenditure over revenue of $119,278.81. I would like to ask you, sir, whether any of these municipalities, Surrey, Langley, Maple Ridge, Coquitlam and the others, have not received back their contribution of taxes to the general revenue? Take one year's showing; there is a total expenditure in municipalities, outside Vancouver and New Westminster, of $62,340 62 for roads and schools. What do you find the revenue is that has been received from these places? According to a return handed me, it is the sum of $16,618 23. I think I have now shown you that this part of the country has been fairly treated by the Government. I have shown you that the fear of injustice in the matter of redistribution has no foundation in fact, and I am sure that every reasonable man will admit that there is no occasion for this separation petition. I have been informed that this movement is spreading. If it is spreading it is merely among those who are not informed in the matter. I have been told they have formed a Government for the country, and even have appointed the members of their cabinet. They expect, no doubt, to do great things, for themselves, when the new "kingdom" comes. Here is a country that has, say 100,000 of a population. Do you suppose the proposal is going to be listened to for one moment that we should have two separate provinces? The thing is too ridiculous, and every sensible man must see that those getting up these petitions are simply making fools of themselves, and the people who sign the petitions, ridiculous. Now, having shown the determination of the Government to deal fairly in this matter and all other matters before the country, I would draw your attention to the kind of encouragement given by the morning organ at Vancouver when it writes that no matter what the Government may do, they are to have no credit for it. In the House of Assembly Mr. Brown and Mr. Cotton claimed to wish to act with the Government in bringing down a fair measure of redistribution. They say, let us have representation according to population. They want to cut off the country districts—pocket boroughs they call them. The two smallest of these country constituencies are Alberni and the Islands. Yet, would you believe that both Mr. Brown and Mr. Cotton in the Legislative Assembly advocated the Islands and Alberni retaining their representatives, and the same with Cariboo. Their insincerity was shown by their professions. In some things they had been ingenuous foes. I feel I have trespassed unduly on your forbearance. (No, no.) Whatever opposition I might have expected to encounter, I felt there was a sufficient spirit of justice and fair-play to give me the impartial hearing which you have done to-night, and I thank you, Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, for the kind manner in which you have listened to my exposition of the policy of the Government of which I have the honor to be leader. THE GRACEFUL POSE.

HOW TO SECURE THE BEST EFFECTS IN PHOTOGRAPHS.

Why Black Attire Should Be Avoided. Full Length Better Than a Bust View. Why Actresses Make Good Subjects—The Beauty of Curves.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

"A plain woman will often make quite as attractive a photograph as a pretty one if she knows how to dress and carry herself and always has a full length picture instead of a bust portrait."

THE CAROLUS DUVAN POSE.

This opinion coming from an apostle of the new movement in photography whose exquisite poses are attracting the attention of the art world had weight and meaning, and knowing that all women want to look their best when they finally screw their courage up to face a camera and get "taken" I tried to extract a little more valuable information for the benefit of the sisterhood.

"Your figure," he went on, "is quite as characteristic as your face. You can tell your friend's form at some distance, even before you can distinguish the face. A picture, then, of your friend which takes in the form as well as the face has for you much more interest than simply a bust picture.

"Suppose a lady whose quaint, picturesque or French style of dressing is a part of her individuality has a bust portrait taken. She loses that distinguishing mark and comes down to the dead level of the mass of humanity. She must be judged with the rest, and her face and head must be beautiful indeed to stand the test of all the attention being focused upon it. If she be plain, her maid, who may have an ideal face, makes by far the more attractive photograph.

"But let this woman, who has beautiful gowns and knows how to wear them, have a full length picture, and her maid won't be 'in it.' She brings with her something of the air of her world, of the grand dame or her own personality, whatever it may be, that at once makes the picture interesting.

"Suppose she has beautiful hands or arms or a gracefully curved figure. Are not these of quite as much account as regularity of features? And does she not want to preserve their likeness as well?

"These are some of the reasons why I advocate the full length portrait. I know that the simple bust picture is the universal one, and why? Because not one photographer in a thousand knows how to pose a subject for a full length. A well known photographer told me not long ago that he always discouraged a full length picture when he could because of the difficulty in posing. It takes an artist to know what a good pose is.

"When I start to pose a woman, I look her over carefully. If she is breezy, chic, pretty, then I pose her a la Carolus Duvan. Is she demure, of the Puritan maiden order, then I think of Boughton or perhaps some little sketch of a Priscilla seen a day or two before. Has she a classic head, which she has helped out by a dress in simple lines or folds, or, better still, a Greek gown, I think of Alma Tadema or the marbles of the Louvre and give her an appropriate attitude and sitting. Is she a bit quaint and colonial in her style, then Abbey's dainty conceits are suggested, and I make a picture of her that at once brings to mind his delightful illustrations.

AN ABBEY POSE.

"Do not think you must wear black for a photograph. Black is, in fact, the worst color you can put on. The pale tints, such as pale pink, pale yellow and pale green are best. These have a variety of lights, shadows and gradations which you cannot get in white, though white often makes a very charming drapery, especially where simple statuesque effects are wanted. Do not wear dark red or deep yellow, as they absorb the light, giving a dark, dead tone.

"Do not put white lace or a mass of anything white up close around the throat. Never dress the neck high if you can possibly avoid it. The curves of a woman's throat are among the most beautiful in nature. They should never be covered in a picture. If you fear you are too thin, don't let that trouble you. I can always arrange the lights so as to round out a scrawny neck, and as for the collar bones I can take them out with the utmost ease—I mean of course out of the photograph.

"Evening dress is always best in a full length picture, and the arms and neck, if they are at all good, should not be covered.

"Always bring with you a fan, lorgnette or something of your belongings, as it will help in the arrangement of your hands, and you will seem more at home with something of your own than if the photographer has to supply the deficiency.

"Be sure to bring the proper shoes. So many ladies forget that important item and then lament the presence of a walking boot peeping out from under an evening dress. I have thought of keeping a supply on hand; then I found they would never fit, so have not yet made the attempt.

"Do not make up your face with paints or powders unless you are an actress and wish to produce the same effect you do on the stage. Cosmetics and pencilings are apt to produce exaggerated lights and lines in the hands of an amateur. If you need a little powder, the photographer will supply it and will know just how much is required.

"Fat women should dress as simply as possible and in long, graceful lines. I notice they generally wear the things that make them look the largest and call attention to their size in the loudest tones. Ruffles, horizontal trimmings, laces and furbelows are the things to be avoided. High collars are not to be thought of. For most fat women I should prefer a sitting to a standing pose. When the figure is very unshapely, I would recommend the lady to bring with her a handsome wrap or bit of drapery that can be thrown loosely about her. Probably in such instances a simple bust portrait would be preferable.

"The underlying principle of a graceful pose is a curve. The line of beauty is a return curve something like the letter S. From the top of the head to the turn of the foot this principle must prevail. Angles must be carefully avoided."

"Do actresses make the best pictures?"

"Well, with the ordinary inartistic photographer, I should say yes, because they know how to take a pose, and their study of themselves before the mirror and in the gaze of an audience gives them a certain command over their features which is not subject to change or embarrassment before the camera. But I take society women much more than professionals, and I find them just as good subjects. They easily assume the poses I place them in, and they wear their clothes gracefully." ALICE E. IVES.

A Toilet Table.

A small deal stand makes a neat dressing table if it is smoothly covered with bright cretonne. A pretty one was made of an old fashioned washstand with square legs and as half half way up. The top is to be covered first with a square of cretonne several inches larger in every direction. Place the stuff on the floor face downward and turn the stand upside down, with the top in the middle of the cretonne. Draw it smoothly over the edge of the table and tack it on the lower part of the top, close to the frame. Cover the shelf next in the same way, cutting the stuff to fit around the legs. Cover each leg with a straight strip of cretonne drawn tight around it, with the edge lapping at the inner corner. Turn under the lapped edge and tack with the smallest sized tacks. Cover the frame last with a band of cretonne, the upper edge of which is turned under and tacked to the frame close to the top of the stand. Cut the lower edge to fit over the legs and draw it over the edge of and inside the frame, tacking it firmly there. Done in rose cretonne with an old mirror hanging over it, the frame of which has been enameled to match, this toilet stand is pretty enough for any dressing room. I. P.

Better Than Flirting.

It is agreeable to see how progressive ideas with regard to women have invaded even the official circles at Washington. This is largely due to granger and Populist influence. The daughter of Senator Peffer of Kansas is secretary of the committee of which her father is chairman. It is much better for a senator's daughter to be making herself useful than to spend her time flirting and waltzing with the lazy and corrupt young members of the foreign legations at Washington, youths who have no respect for American womanhood.

In Arkansas women have school suffrage and are eligible to office on school boards.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS AND DOCTORS

Have Sung Its Praises!

THE PUBLIC SPEAK OF IT AS MANKIND'S BENEFACTOR!

ITS MARVELOUS CURES AMAZE THE WORLD!

Paine's Celery Compound Is Not a Patent Medicine It Is a Great Physician's Prescription!

It Is Now Prescribed by Physicians!

NO OTHER MEDICINE CAN CURE YOU!

The skeptic and doubter of truth and reality, may loudly assert that our statements and claims are boastful and unfounded. Well, at times we are inclined to express our pity for that poor mortal—the skeptic. We realize the fact that the majority of them have minds and souls so dwarfed, that they even deny the existence of a supreme Being. The world can never suffer much from their being allowed the privilege of sitting in the seats of the scorners and unbelievers.

It is pleasing to know that the millions of sensible believing men and women in our Dominion have accepted every statement publicly made in favor of Paine's Celery Compound, that great healer and lifegiver of our time.

An array of testimony, strong, truthful and incontrovertible, has been sent in to the proprietors of the great medicine in no stinted measure. Every testimonial emphatically declares that Paine's Celery Compound cures; many assert that without it they would have gone to the grave.

We have heard our clergymen, lawyers and doctors speak strongly in favor of Paine's Celery Compound, and the public speak of it as mankind's benefactor. No wonder they do so, its marvellous cures astonish the world, and great minds are forced to investigate this most wonderful of all prescriptions given to the world by a physician.

Reader, this life-giving prescription is for you, if you need strength, vigor and new life; you must use if you wish to banish disease and pain; no other medicine can do the same great work for you; and remember well that you are deceived and misled if you allow others to recommend you something else. Paine's Celery Compound is what you want at this time; we strongly advise a trial in order to convince you that the thousands who have testified have done so for your personal benefit.

Every Lady in the Dominion should have one:

Every lady in the Dominion should have a MELISSA wrap of some style. Costing only a trifle (about $1.50) more than ordinary wraps of similar material, they are at once the most useful and the most economical garments of the present day, because they are really two in one, being a rainproof garment as well as a stylish and comfortable wrap.

MELISSA wraps should not be classed with ordinary waterproofs. They are made up in all the latest styles, out of fine soft woolen materials (rendered thoroughly rainproof by the MELISSA process); beautifully finished, and they fit to perfection, as only tailor made garments can.

Many ladies have written us asking for information, patterns, etc., etc., but as we do a strictly wholesale manufacturing business, we cannot in justice to our many customers, sell directly to anyone not in trade. Desiring, however, to give all information possible and place our MELISSA wraps within easy reach of every lady in the country, we invite direct correspondence and will, on receipt of a letter from any lady, giving the name and address of the merchant with whom she deals, at once send that dealer a full range of our patterns, catalogues of designs and other necessary information.

If there is no good local dealer that will take the trouble to serve her in the way we suggest, we will place her in communication with one of our most reliable customers in some other place, who we can guarantee will be only too glad to give her every possible attention.

I have carefully examined the foregoing Statement and find the same to be correct.
A. N. WATERHOUSE, Auditor.

THE TEST OF EVERY BUSINESS IS THE PROFIT OR DIVIDEND EARNED. Nobody denies the well-known fact, that THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEW YORK has done better by its policy-holders than any other institution of its kind. It has paid larger dividends to its policy-holders than any other Company; it has paid much larger sums, when policies have been surrendered to it, than have been offered by the custodians of the funds of other Life Insurance Companies; in other words, it has treated its policy-holders honorably, fairly and generously, and by these methods has justly earned the distinction and the proud position of "THE LARGEST AND BEST LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WORLD." THE MUTUAL LIFE has enjoyed the same advantages, possessed by other financial institutions. The field of investment is open to all, but it so happens that the better management of THE MUTUAL has produced results showing a decided advantage to those holding its policies. Other companies have made more brilliant and inviting promises, but when the contracts terminated those of THE MUTUAL were always found to be the best for their holders. There is no reason why THE MUTUAL LIFE, in the future, should not do much better by its policy-holders than any other existing company. No other institution possesses superior facilities, and no company in the past has invested the funds paid by policy-holders to so great an advantage. Its productive assets—some $170,000,000—are realizing an annual average rate of interest equalled by few and exceeded by none. In view of these facts is it probable that any other company now offering its policies to the public can possibly exceed THE MUTUAL LIFE in future financial results to policy-holders? We think not. They may ESTIMATE more, but they will not GUARANTEE as much. Example after example could be given to prove the fact that THE MUTUAL pays larger Dividends than other companies. Compare results between the THREE GIANTS:

THE POLICY-HOLDERS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA ARE LIVING WITNESSES AS TO THE DIVIDEND-PAYING POWER OF THE MUTUAL.

The confidence of the public at large is a strong evidence of the Company's success. Shrewd investors are every day shewing that confidence. A RECENT NOTED EXAMPLE--JAMES J. HILL, PRESIDENT OF THE GREAT NORTHERN, recently gave his check for $136,350 to THE MUTUAL LIFE for one of the famous CONSOLS. This is the largest check ever received by any company for insurance on the life of a single individual.

THE POLICIES OF THE COMPANY. This Company issues every form of policy, and among them FOUR Special Contracts NOT issued by ANY other Company, viz.: 5% Debenture Policies, Continuous Instalment Policies, Special Income Life Policies and CONSOLS. The 6% Consols are the best investments in the world. In proof—Can you buy ANY other property on the same terms? For instance—If you could buy Real Estate on the following terms, you would secure just what a 6% Consol gives you, viz.: Lots valued at $500 each in parcels of twenty, to be paid for in 20 instalments, each of equal amount, and to include all charges; the property guaranteed to increase in value each year under a certain contingency until, with the payment of last instalment, the present value will be doubled. In case of the owner's death the mortgage is extinguished and payments cease. A very valuable clause of the contract is the guarantee of the Company that the property, when paid for, will produce a revenue (without spending further capital for improvements) equal to at least 6 per cent., free of taxes.

SUMMONSES FOR RIFLEMEN

City Police Interfere With the Authorized Shooting—High Scores for a Start.

A Trip to Vancouver—Local Big Gun Practice—The Coming Tournament.

Vancouver has no military yet, though the establishment there of a strong company of garrison artillery is one of the probabilities of the near future. There are, however, many ex-military men there who favor the idea of a military parade in connection with the Dominion Day celebration. Should an invitation be extended, it is very likely that the Victoria companies would attend almost in full strength. There is a feeling in the companies that an excursion somewhere would help to increase the interest in military affairs, and no more auspicious occasion could well offer than the great celebration at Vancouver.

BIG GUN COMPETITION.

This competition, being part of the annual drill of the B.C.G.A., will be held at Victoria probably the first week in August. A New Westminster team is coming over to take part, and that time would well suit them as it will immediately follow the Provincial rifle meeting. The allowance of ammunition is so scanty that only a small detachment from each company can practise firing with the big guns. The rest have to be content with acquiring the theory of the business. It is hoped that the efforts of the department to have an efficient artillery corps will not stop at merely authorizing five hundred men to learn the theory of their drill, but that they will be afforded means of putting their knowledge in practice.

AT CLOVER POINT.

The first general practice of this season took place yesterday at Clover Point range, the worst apology in the Dominion for a rifle practice ground. The Point being within the city limits special permission has been obtained from the corporation for the riflemen to fire there. Each season, however, the police make a visit to the range and threaten the volunteers with the consequences of acting upon the council's permission. Yesterday afternoon Sergeant Walker, of the city force, was on hand bright and early and proceeded to take the names of all those practising, giving the information at the same time that those whose names he took down would be summoned to appear in the police court. The firing, as carried on, is neither a nuisance nor a danger to any one, as there is no travel within the range of the bullets, and whenever a vehicle approaches on the road behind the firing points the shooting is stopped so that the horses may not be frightened by the noise.

Yesterday there was a large turnout, there being a greater number present than could be accomodated at the single target. The officers present were Lieut.-Colonel Wolfenden, president of the Provincial association, Lieutenants B. Williams and Ross Monro of the B.C.G.A. The firing was at 500 and 600 yards, seven shots, the 200 yards range being omitted for want of time. The rifle used was the Snider, the only exception in the list given below being B. Williams, who used the Martini:

	500	600.	Total.
A. R. Langley	29	33	62
B. Williams	31	27	58
M. G. Blanchard	29	28	57
W. B. McInnes	32	21	53
Senator McInnes	34	19	53
Ross Monro	30	21	51
G. H. Morkill	26	23	49
W. Duncan	23	23	46
F. A. Quigley	24	21	45
D. McConnan	26	16	42

The features of the day were Langley's 33 out of 35 at 600 yards, and Senator McInnes' 34 at 500. There was very little wind, for Clover Point, but the light was uncertain.

THE B. C. G. A. TOURNAMENT.

On Monday every man interested in the above should attend, as it is the desire of Instructor St. Clair to pick out those for the different classes, too much time being at present spent in practising all forms of exercise. Capt Smallfield will have a list of names handed to him for those classes, and will see that each member does his part. If the men will back up Mr. St. Clair and those officers who are taking part, the tournament can easily be carried to a successful end. Instructor St. Clair wishes it stated that if any wish special instruction, he is quite willing to give it them.

A COMPARISON.

The recent increase in the authorized strength of the British Columbia Battalion of Garrison Artillery to 525, making it the largest in the Dominion, makes it interesting to compare the figures with those of some of the other corps. The Halifax Garrison Artillery also has been increased and its strength is now four companies, with a total of 427. The three other battalions of that arm are: Montreal, 278; New Brunswick, 232; and Prince Edward Island, 232. The three regiments of Canadian "regulars" have: Dragoons, 158; Artillery, 426; Infantry, 428. The strongest cavalry regiment is the 8th Princess Louise Dragoons, in New Brunswick, 319. The field artillery has one brigade of 160; the rest being made up of independent batteries of 79 each. In the infantry the greatest establishment allowed is 458, there being six corps having that strength.

ABERDEEN FOR CANADA.

British Press Comments on the Expected New Governor-General.

LONDON, May 13.—Press comments are favorable on to-day's official notice that the Earl of Aberdeen has been appointed Governor-General of Canada.

The Daily News praises the wide sympathies of both the Earl and the Countess.

The Chronicle says: "The Earl is young and energetic and alive to the best democratic movements of the day."

The Westminster Gazette says: "The appointment is generally approved and will afford opportunities of statesmanship, as commercial union, independence and annexation are all in the air, and the future of the Dominion, even of the Empire, may depend on the course of public opinion in Canada during the next few years."

The St. James' Gazette suggests that when the Earl of Aberdeen's term of office ends the Duke of Fife would be a very popular Governor, and the Duke of Connaught would be more popular still.

IMPERIAL PALIAMENT.

A Week of Discouragement to the Liberals—Home Rule Bill in Committee.

Attacks on Mr. Gladstone and His Supporters—the Cloture Again Threatened.

LONDON, May 13.—This week has brought only discouragement to the Liberals. The records of the House of Commons sitting in committee show a monotonous waste of obstructive motions and significant decisions. The ministerialists are puzzling now over the problem—If five nights are required for the discussion of the comparatively unimportant first clause of the bill, how many nights will be required for the discussion of all forty clauses? Indications are that the obstruction of clause 1 has been merely a specimen of what may be expected with the consideration of each succeeding clause. Mr Gladstone is badly handicapped in his efforts to defeat the obstructionists by the admitted incapacity of Mr. Mellor in the chair. Mr. Gladstone is reluctant to depose him, but the other members of the Cabinet urge that something be done quickly to place the guidance of the committee in stronger hands.

The Unionists leader has decided in conference to make clause 2 a peg on which to hang another discussion of the supremacy of the Imperial Parliament, a question already debated at exhausting length in the first days of the committee. The Government will meet this effort to rehash half the speeches already made in committee with summary repressive measures. Lord Randolph Churchill recently referred to the present Cabinet as "inflated by their arrogance beyond the point of ordinary insanity." Mr. Gladstone, he said, was making a "deliberate attempt to humiliate and ruin England." Prof. Tyndall, Mr. Gladstone's historic enemy, in an open letter, denounces John Morley as an English Robespierre and calls Mr. Gladstone a traitor to his country, sacrificing everything sacred to his overwhelming lust of power and surrounding himself with sycophants who push into monstrous activity the worst qualities of his character. The Professor also describes the Home Rule bill as the "Evil demon of the House of Commons and a veritable nightmare."

MARINE MOVEMENTS.

The C.P.N. steamer Princess Louise returned from the North yesterday morning, with a very small freight. She brought down all the carpenters who have been working on the Inverness cannery, but had few other passengers. The crew of the steamer say they only had two days fine weather since they left Victoria. On the homeward trip the Boscowitz was passed at Seymour Narrows, and the Maude at Alert Bay. The Quadra had been at Port Simpson, and while there she was joined with the U. S. steamer Patterson, both vessels proceeding then directly for the North.

LOCATED A NEW ROCK.

Captain Plummer, of the steamer Al-Ki, reports the rock which he located on his last trip North as being in British water, eight miles north of Bella Bella, between Gray's Island and Dall's reef, and one-eighth of a mile from the buoy on Dall's reef. The rock is sixteen feet below the surface at dead low tide.

C-C-C-LAMS!

The little American sloop Elwha arrived over from Port Angeles' yesterday, having made the trip across in three and a half hours. She brought ten cases of clams, and will bring over more in a few days. Her owner says he would like very much to enter her in the yacht races here this month.

MARINE NOTES.

Steamship Walla Walla arrived from San Francisco at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning, bringing 222 2-5 tons of freight and 32 cabin passengers for Victoria.

The vessels forming the U. S. Behring Sea patrol will outfit on the Sound this year.

The new steamer Warlock is not yet ready to make her trip.

Steamship City of Puebla sails for San Francisco this morning.

Smuggling Chinese.

PORT TOWNSEND, May 13.—The steamers Cascades and Milton, recently fined $500 for carrying an excessive number of passengers, have absconded to British Columbia waters. Information has been received to-night that a British steam yacht came over from Victoria, landed thirty-two Chinese in the United States and escaped back to the British side without detection.
